DARING PHOTO STORY

I'll take the Dare, please! Barbara Dare, that is. The September '87 issue featuring the interview/pictorial of Barbara Dare is superb. She says that Marilyn Chambers is her idol. Well, in my opinion, Barbara Dare is a 10+. What a body, what a smile, what gorgeous skin! Personally, I think Marilyn Chambers is bony and sleazy, and after reading this great article about Barbara Dare, I wouldn't be surprised to see Marilyn Chambers packing her stuff and hitting the trail. —M. M.

Lynchburg, Virginia

Barbara Dare is fantastic! The photo-layout was one of the best I have seen in a long time. She has both striking beauty and a sincere personality. I'm glad she enjoys doing what she's doing, because it would sadden me to see her stop. Keep up the good work, Barbara, and thanks, HUSTLER—especially James Baes and Doug Oliver—for bringing her to me.

—D. J. B.
Elmira, New York

A SUCKER FOR AREOLA

I waited too long to get the September issue. Three days is too long to wait to see the gorgeous nipples in this issue. They're everywhere! Did you plan that, for those of us who love to chew and suck and get a mouthful? From "Melina," to "Smut Spectacular," to "Addicted to Lust," to "Sex Offenders": I loved seeing that handsome dick with a mouthful, completely forgetting the music. But my favorite ones were the big erect nipples in the lezbo scene. Oh, what I wouldn't give to get that whole thing in my mouth. Big tits are good, big nipples are best! More, more, more please.

—K. M.
Honolulu, Hawaii

PLAYING HER TUNE

After picking up your latest issue (September '87), I went into spasms on, and all over, the floor. Your "Addicted to Lust" pictorial was so hot, I couldn't stop coming. I don't know where you find these well-hung studs—I wish it was my tight ass he was filling. I'd love to suck the cum right out of his hot balls. Keep up the good work, stud.

—B. P.

Des Moines, Iowa

LAUGH 'TIL IT HURTS

One of the deadliest and most difficult literary forms in which to convey an opinion is satire. In "Junk Mail from God," (September '87 HUSTLER), Michael Dasler displays his mastery of the form with merciless force, and by so doing, reveals a serious flaw in our society, as the great Alexander Pope did some 200 years ago. Art should delight and instruct. I am proud of an America I learned about in elementary school, and my love of God is more personal to me than sex. Yet, the more I think about what Dasler revealed in his article, the more I come to believe that Falwell and his "army" are wielding a double-edged sword that destroys both faith and freedom. I laughed long, hard and loud, but then I cried quietly and deeply for the death of a dream of fundamental freedom and personal faith in (to quote Thomas Jefferson) a Divine Creator of all life. Perhaps America was just a story my old teachers told me. How did this happen to our great nation of freedom?

—D. J.

St. Petersburg, Florida

NO HANDICAP TO GOOD SEX

I'm an avid reader of your magazine, and since March 1986, I have been paralyzed from the neck down. I am a C-5-6 quad, and I would like to see and read about other people in chairs. I thought maybe HUSTLER could do a layout with some quads, or something related. I have read that Larry Flynt was paralyzed by some ignorant white hoods who tried to waste him down South. I thought you might like to know these ignorant hooded bastards are having a little march down here in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, to celebrate Independence Day.

ANOTHER THIMBLE-SIZED MIND

"A Player's Guide to Our Secret Government" in your August issue is certainly not consistent with your American magazine. This pinko faggot nut called Michael Errol could not even make a good pimple on Ollie North's ass. Because of pinko commie faggots in the Senate and people like Errol, the Communists have infiltrated damn near every country in the world. He forgets what happened at the Bay of Pigs disaster. This Errol belongs in the same flowerchild pinko organization as Jane Fonda, Jimmy (peanut) Carter, and all the people who have aided Communist murderers. Now, they're in our backyard. As far as I'm concerned, Colonel North and his team should continue to fight Communism anywhere in the world, and any way they can.

-T. M. G.

Camden, New Jersey

Does "any way they can" include not only illegal acts, but also the risk of war—are you ready to pay the price for some loose cannon's arrogant disregard for the law? Perhaps you never bother to read about the contra murderers in our backyard. You belong in the same class as Joe McCarthy and Spiro Agnew—dead fascists.

WISDOM OF AGE

My congratulations to HUSTLER for producing a dynamite magazine month after month. Your new format for the video reviews is well-done. Being an avid fan of backdoor action, I appreciate your reviews. How about a poop-chute spread of Brittany Stryker—two dorks up her shitter at once. Your centerfold's ("Sally") inverted nipples were a real turn-on. July's two-page ass spread was a treat. Now, if you would have provided a well-deserving wide-open sphincter shot for January's "Blondi," I'd have known I'd reached heaven. August's Hot Letters from B.I. of Massachusetts was awe-inspiring. Thanks again for the excellent quality of your publication. Keep it up, it keeps mine up, and at 70 years old, that's a compliment.

-Milt Sr.

Brookfield, Connecticut

AGAINST ANTI-SEX CUSTOMS

I would like to know if HUSTLER can help me with my particular situation. More than half of the material I have ordered through one of your advertisers has been confiscated by the U.S. Customs Service. What I would like to know is if this can be circumvented, or if you can put me in touch with a reliable source of animal-orgy films.

-J. R. G.

East Islip, New York

We're one of your many advertisers in the mail-order video business, and we do get many replies as a result of our ads. Ninety-five percent of the responses get handled through normal procedure, the other 5% don't. The reason: "Bureaucratic Bullshit!" There are ten states in our country where the state legislature, for reasons known to themselves, have taken it upon themselves to rewrite the U.S. Constitution, telling citizens of their state what they can do in the privacy of their own homes. In the form of various laws, distributors like ourselves are prohibited from selling adult videos in these states: Florida, North and South Carolina, Hawaii, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee, Utah, Oklahoma and Virginia. We wrote to the governors of all these states and received replies from two of them, informing us that they were forwarding our letters to other departments for reply, but none ever came. The rest did nothing in the way of giving information on what we can or cannot do—typical bureaucratic action. In all cases we have tried replying to the potential customers, informing them of the problem. What I hope to do is inform the citizens of these states of this prohibition so they don't waste their time and money requesting materials that we are not permitted to send them. Citizens in these problem states have got to realize that on this past 4th of July, we celebrated a happening that shook the world—a revolution for freedom. The government is still working for you: You're the boss. So don't wait until the saying "You can't fight city hall" becomes a reality.

Operations Director, Tag Videos

THE LAST BLEEPING WORD

I love your magazine. I am writing to let you know about the censorship of one of the best shows on television: Saturday Night Live. The July 11, 1987 show was a rerun, but the first time it aired there was a joke about Ivan Boesky, in which the word bitch was used. On the rerun it was bleeped out. I don't know who the right-wing shit-swallowers were who censored it, but as far as I'm concerned, people who rape the First Amendment should be castrated. HUSTLER should encourage people to write their congressmen and the networks so that they'll stop listening to these right-wing buttfucks who don't believe in the First Amendment. If the readers of HUSTLER won't stand up for their rights, no one else will.

-M. A. S.

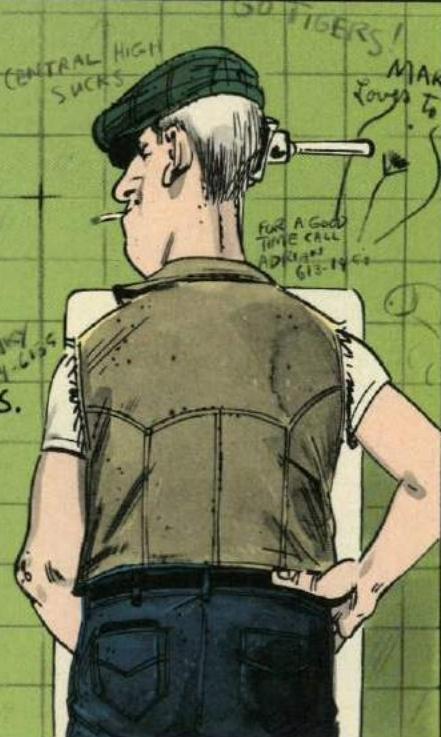

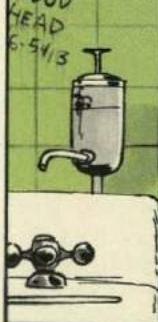

Columbus, Ohio

THE PRICE OF PASSING UP GOOD SEX

My mother had come out from Michigan to visit me in Malibu, California, and I was determined to show her the real Hollywood." Filmmaker Jeffrey Jackson sets the scene of one of his most memorable nights. "I took her to this hole-in-the-wall saloon, where a lot of famous movie people hang out. My mom was incredibly excited when she saw Carroll [Archie Bunker] O'Connor and Burgess [Rocky's manager] Meredith. It was going perfect—until I went to pay the bill. Next to the register is this fantastic girl, in her early 20s, braless and wearing a T-shirt. She juts her tits into me and says, 'I want to be loved tonight.' She's drunk, but she means every word. What do I do? My mother is standing next to me! I blush and, after mumbling to the girl about my mother, I hurry Mom out of there and back to my house, where I get second thoughts. Concocting a lame story, I tell Mom I have to rush back to the bar. Just as I pull into the parking lot, what do I see? My sexy starlet driving off with another man.

"You know," Jackson claims, though a full ten years have intervened, "I still think about that girl. She was a fox. What a night I could have had if my mother hadn't been in town!"

There is a widespread belief—and it is very false—that a real man will never and has never turned down a woman who is hot to trot. In Zorba the Greek, author Nikos Kazantzakis bluntly spreads this misconception: "He who can sleep with a woman and does not, commits a great sin. My boy, if a woman calls you to share her bed, and you don't go, your soul will be destroyed! That woman will sigh before God on judgment day, and that woman's sigh will cast you into hell." Zorba's pronouncement may sound true, but we can all identify with Jeffrey Jackson's Malibu dilemma—and most would have made the same sad choice. In fact, pretty much all of us at one time or another have shuffled away from an eager, waiting woman. Those moments generally revolve around split-second decisions—but it is those fast decisions that haunt us for years to come.

BY ROBERT McGARVEY

Many areas in the sexual world have remained hidden for too long behind the doors of fear, ignorance, inexperience and hypocrisy. In keeping with HUSTLER Magazine's belief that the repression of any and all sexual information is physically and emotionally damaging, we present this series of revealing articles to keep your sexual knowledge current, to lessen your inhibitions and—ultimately—to make you a much better lover.

This is the time to remember those eligible women we've rejected, either with a straight "no thanks," or perhaps just by ignoring their strong hints. These are the women who are pretty enough, available enough, and definitely willing enough—but to whom we said "no" anyway.

"Damn right I remember the tumbles I turned down better than many of the ones I had," admits computer consultant Timmy Brackett. "It's easy to forget a girl you pick up in a bar and, the next morning, you have to beat your brain cells to remember her name. Her, I'll probably forget in a few days unless the sex leads into a steady relationship. Most of them I want to forget fast because, frankly, all I wanted from them was a quick lay and a goodbye. But I still remember Cindi, a lady I worked with several years ago. Fact is, she's the only girl I ever turned down. She's so frigging cute. I was married at the time, in Boston on business, and Cindi flat out propositioned me. We were in a bar; it was closing time. She said, 'Do you want me to come up to your room?' Out of my mouth, instantly, came the word I still don't believe I said: 'No.' She shrugged—it was no big deal to her—and off she went to her room. I jerked off thinking about her that night . . . and a lot more nights since."

Why did Brackett let that fateful word slip from his mouth? "Guilt and fear, pure and simple. My relationship with my wife wasn't that great, and I didn't want to make things worse. To this day, I wish I'd fucked Cindi."

Joe McMahon, an Irvine, California, marketing manager, has his own haunting memories. "Erin was her name. She was a temp from an agency, just filling in for the regular secretary, who was out sick. Erin's about 22, and the final afternoon she's scheduled to be on the job, she comes into my office and-out of the blue-starts telling me that her last relationship just broke up. Very strange. Until she says, 'I really like older men, in their late 30s,' which is how old I am. It's clicking into place when she says, 'I wonder if I should get off birth-control pills since I no longer have a lover.' Wow! She's as pretty as a network newscaster, which is what she said she wanted to become, and she's not making any bones about propositioning me."

But McMahon passed on Erin's offer. Let him explain: "Her whole scene made me feel weird, like I was a piece of meat. I'm as aggressive as the next guy, and I'm a good salesman. But I want to be the one who does the selling. She never gave me the chance. Ordinarily, I'd be delirious about the chance to screw her. But her style turned me off."

There are many more equally valid reasons for declining sex. Elizabeth, New Jersey, government employee Rob Freitag has his: "I'd been friends-just friends-with this couple for years. When my pal Joey got a job transfer to Los Angeles, it seemed natural that Betsy and I would continue socializing. We did. With a difference. It happened one night. I was hugging her goodbye . . . we started kissing . . . and then we were on the couch, just devouring each other. The words snuck out of my mouth: 'Do you think this is a good idea?' We kept right on kissing. The third or fourth time I asked, she pulled away and said, 'No.' We stopped right there. For sure, Betsy turned me way on. But I felt like I was betraying Joey, her boyfriend and my friend. Sure, he was out of town, maybe forever. But I felt like a shit making it with his woman. To this day, I'm glad I stopped. But I have to wonder what would have happened if we'd made it."

Different as Jackson's, McMahon's, Brackett's and Frietag's stories are, there is a common thread. Psychologist Chuck Latona explains why: "There is an old expression, 'The only things we regret are the things we didn't do.' With the women you slept with, you know what happened. That reality—good or bad—is unchangeable. With the women you refused, you can fantasize, and that can be fun."

With fantasy, there are no bad-news follow-ups. Reality can be painfully different. Maybe if you had slept with that woman you refused, there would have been ugly consequences. Your wife might have left you, the other woman's boyfriend might have mashed your body into the consistency of Jell-O, and, nowadays, an increasingly common prod behind a "no" is genuine concern about safety and health issues. You just can't know all of what you may be getting into.

Terry Bolen, a Los Angeles consultant who specializes in leading motivational workshops, knows about that bad news. "I'm married, right, but after one workshop, this great-looking lady comes up to me and, eventually, we drift up to my hotel room. We're just talking, mind you, but we both know what's up. The damndest thing happened. The phone in my room rang. I didn't answer it, but I let it break our mood. A few minutes later, I shoo the woman out and-guess who'd called? My wife. Weirder still, later I'm talking to a buddy who, it turns out, poked the same woman on a different occasion, and he's bitching because now he has herpes. I'm very fucking lucky I did not do any fucking that night."

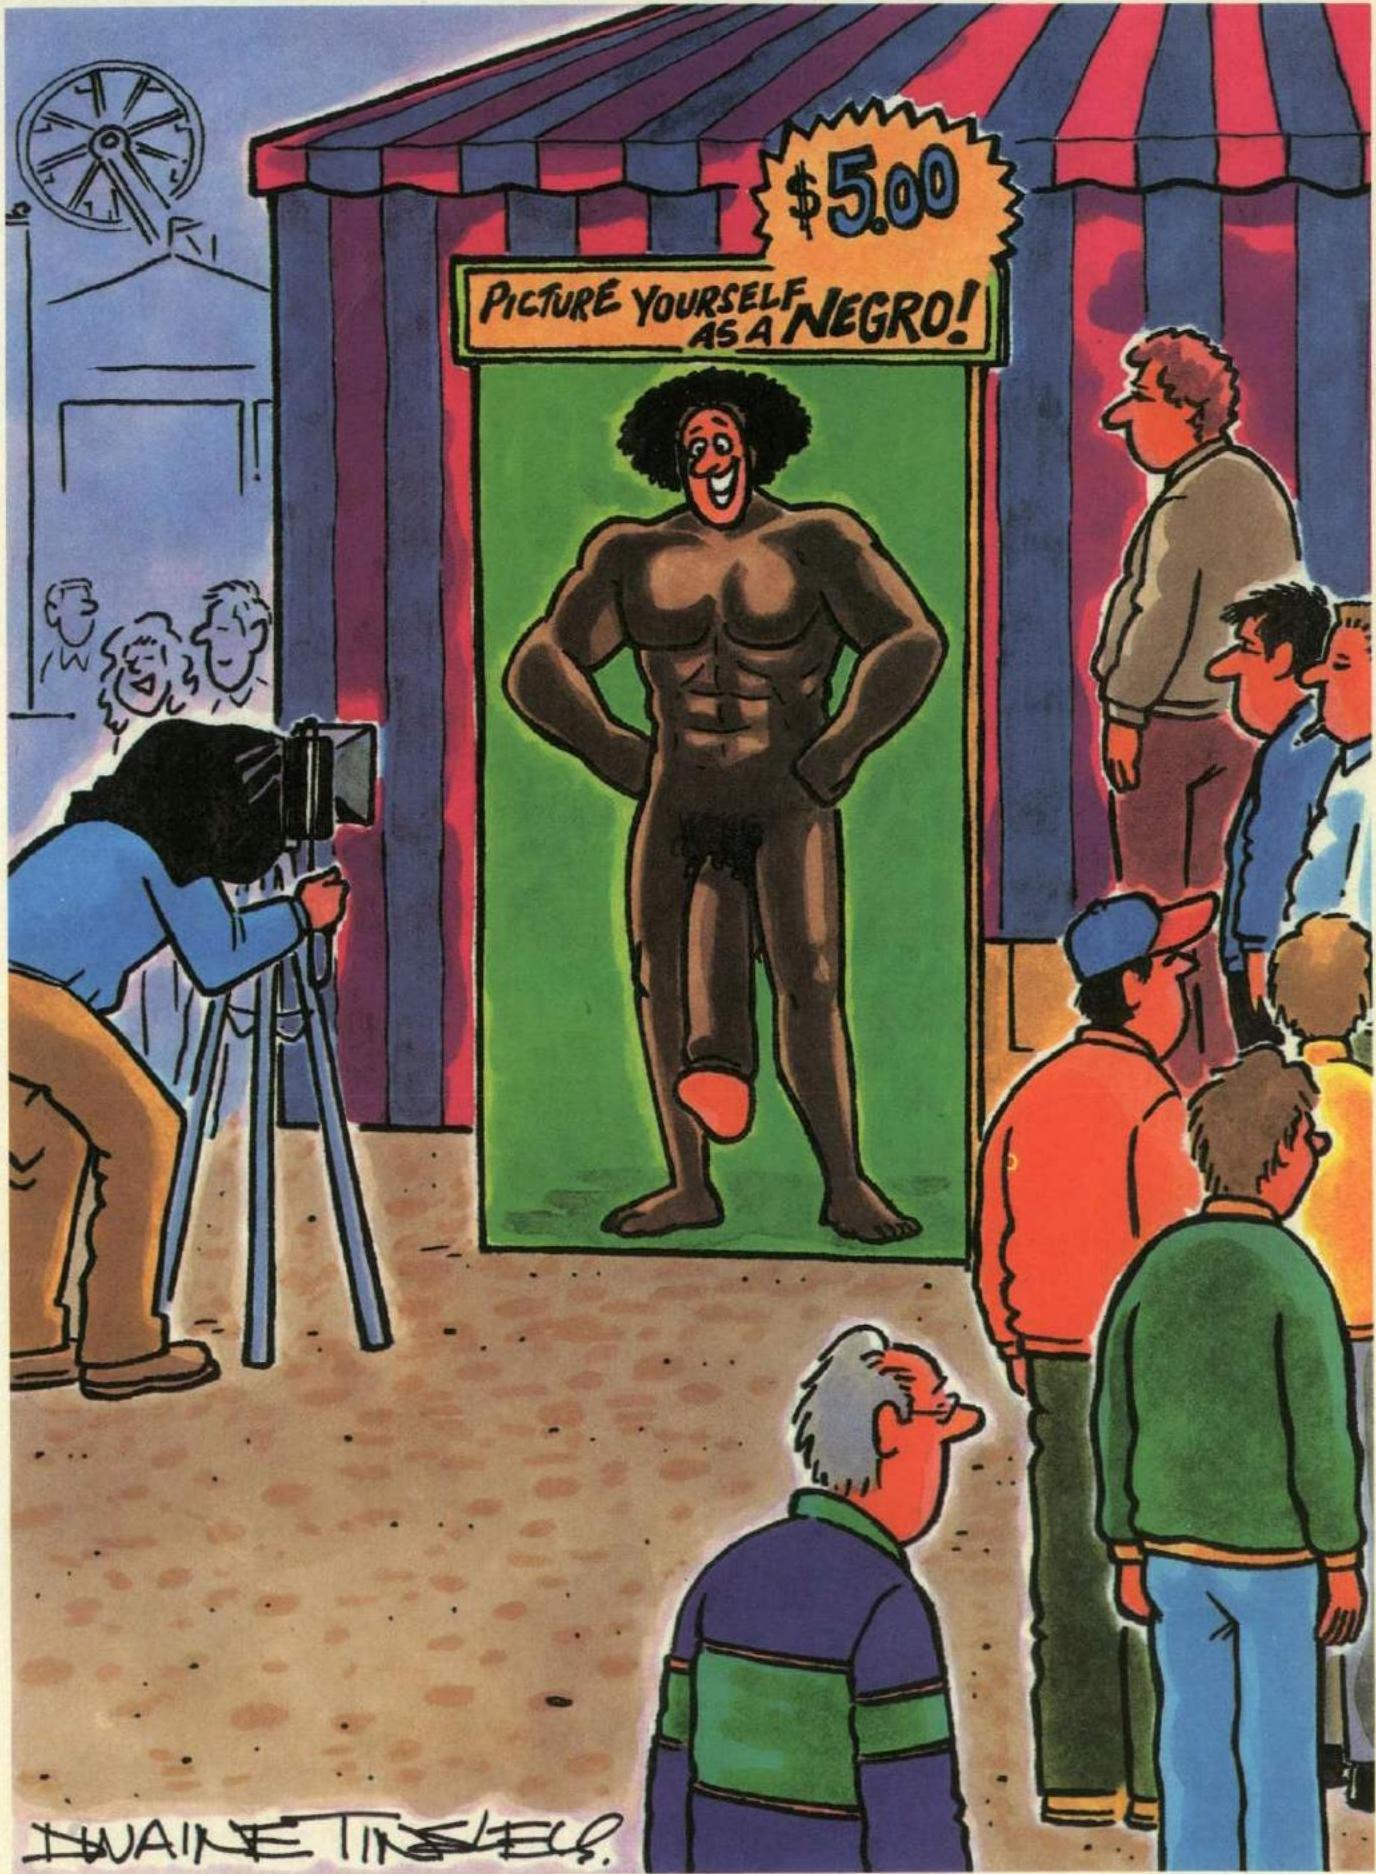

Venice, California, hypnotherapist Doctor Garry Francell adds a second key reason why—even years later—some of us harbor fond fantasies of what might have been if only we'd said yes. "Even in today's somewhat sexually liberated society, men still don't get asked to climb into bed that often. It's memorable because it is a powerful ego stroke and a rare occurrence for most men. If the average man is propositioned by an attractive woman once a year, he is probably beating the odds."

Sort through the stories, and there are consistent themes: fear, respect, guilt or perhaps just a failure to read the signals. Doctor Bernie Zilbergeld, a leading sex therapist and author of the best-seller Male Sexuality, takes a simpler point of view: "It is just that this woman is not right for him in some way."

"Often," Zilbergeld elaborates, "a person will pick up a book and just not be able to get into it. Three years later, he'll pick up the book, and it'll be one of the greatest things he ever read. The same goes for women."

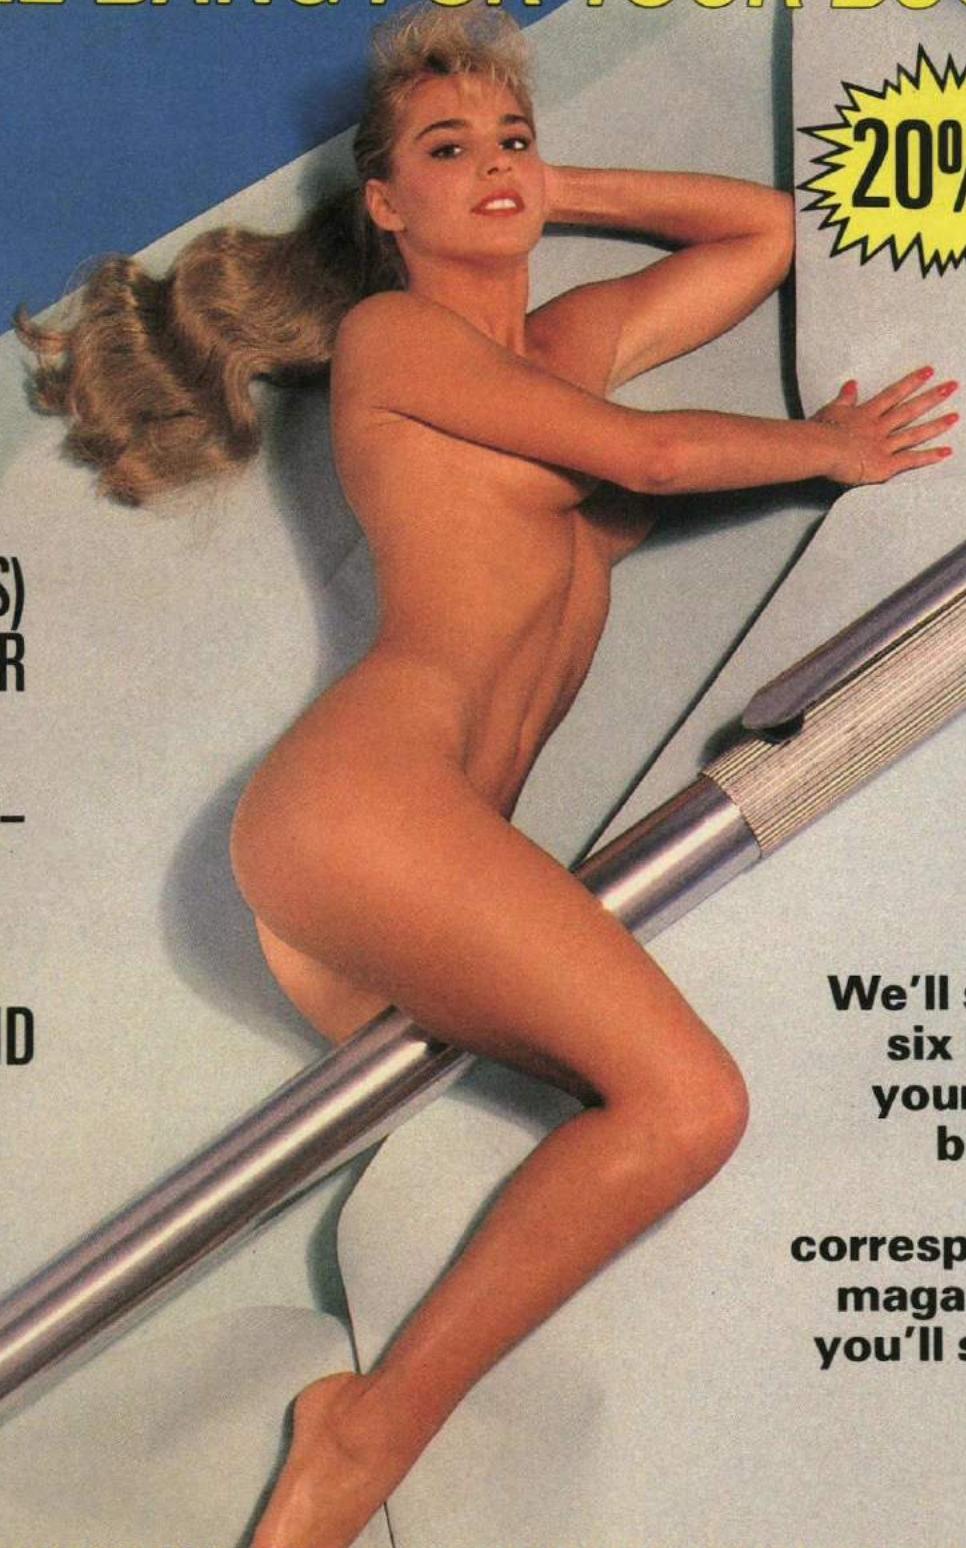

Does it really? Once the "no" slips from his mouth, can a man change his mind? Can he still get that woman at some later date? Says Doctor Francell: "If it can't hurt to ask, ask her. Even if years have gone by. Of course, if you know she's happily married—or whatever—just tuck your memories away and enjoy them as fantasies when you need a little pick-me-up. But if you're both available, remind her of that night and be honest about how you've always wondered what would have happened with a different ending. She'll probably be flattered and, who knows, you just may get to live out that fantasy."

STARTING AT THE BOTTOM

A few months ago I graduated from the University of Missouri and accepted a job in the accounting department of a large company headquartered in St. Louis. Although I am a well-educated, skilled bookkeeper, the best offer I had was an entry-level position.

My supervisor is Carol, a dark-haired beauty in her mid-30s. Last week she called me into her office and had me close the door to give us complete privacy. The first thing my sexy supervisor asked me was how I liked my job. I said it was going well. Carol then asked if I thought I was being used to the best of my abilities. I admitted that the work wasn't very challenging.

Carol stood up from her chair, then walked around to the front of her desk. Taking a seat in the chair across from me, she crossed her left leg over her right and said I had potential for a higher post.

I tried to give my full attention to her words, but my eyes were drawn to her long legs. For an older woman, Carol had a really sexy pair of legs. She consistently wore sheer black hose that made me wild, and her feet were encased in high-heeled black pumps. Carol's left foot bounced up and down as she talked about commitment to the corporation, and what it took to succeed in the business world. I could not concentrate on her lecture because her bouncing foot mesmerized me.

I felt my face flush as I realized that I was getting a hard-on. Desperately, I tried to conceal my lunker by clearing my throat and crossing my legs. "Dennis," Carol uttered, uncrossing her legs and spreading her legs slightly, "are you all right? You look a little peaked."

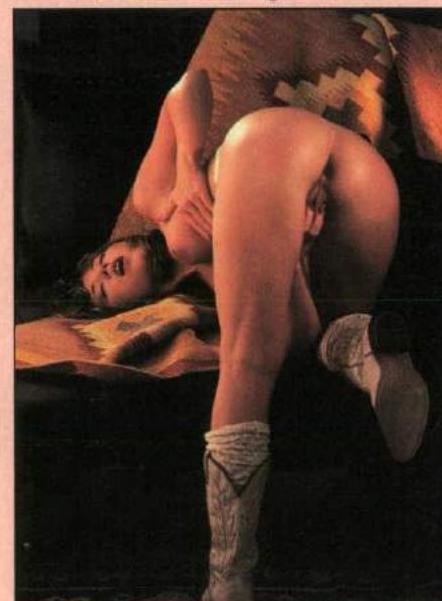

I couldn't believe I was saying it, but the words burst forth. "Your legs. Those black hose drive me crazy!"

"What, this?" she said, running her hands over her firm thighs. I imagined how it felt, the smooth silk, the warmth of her skin. "This turns you on?"

I swallowed hard. "Yes."

"You like my shoes?" she asked, raising her right leg, holding her foot only inches from my face. I was consumed with a sudden desire to touch her foot, to caress it softly in my hands, to kiss it. My hands reached out and touched her foot. As one hand caressed the smooth silk of her calf, the other traced the outline of her foot. It was definitely grounds for immediate termination, but Carol didn't seem to mind my boldness.

"Ooh, that feels so good," she whispered. "You have such talented hands."

I loosened the strap on her shoe, slipping it slowly off her sexy, slender foot. It was warm in my palm, and I used both hands to knead her nylon-encased pod. Carol moaned and lifted her other leg, sticking her shoe in my face.

I gave the same loving attention to her left foot as I did to her right; rubbing it gently, stroking it softly. I let her right foot fall to my lap, where it touched the hardness of my cock through my slacks.

"Oh," my boss replied, smiling. "I see it feels good to you too."

She began to rub her foot against my hard-on. I took her left foot in both hands, lowering my face to her toes. I stuck out my tongue and licked her toes through her hose. My supervisor giggled and rubbed my member harder through my pants. Her toes gave off a heady scent that was not at all unpleasant.

Opening my mouth, I began to suck her big toe as Carol wiggled her other toes against the side of my face and twisted her foot in my hands. She moaned loudly, and her foot rubbing against my cock became more frenzied. I looked up to see Carol's head thrown back, both hands buried underneath her panties. She was fingering herself as she masturbated me with her foot!

That display, coupled with Carol's orgasmic cries of pleasure and her foot frigging my meat, made my cock quickly shoot its load into my pants. The sexy brunette could feel my joint jerking against her arch, and she came only moments later, moaning as her fingers moved swiftly under her dress.

With a sly grin on her lips, she pulled her hands out of her panties and offered one to me. I sucked the sweet sex nectar from her digits as she did the same to her other hand. She then handed me a tissue to clean myself up. My cum had soaked through the front of my pants, leaving an obvious wet spot; so Carol said I could stay in her office for awhile.

While I was waiting, she had me eat her pussy from underneath her desk, which I did willingly and eagerly. Carol told me as I was leaving her office that she thought I'd fit into the company scheme of things. Now I look forward to every work day.

I'm 25 years old and was recently wed to my high-school sweetheart, Kim, a 5-2, 98-pound knockout. Kim's blonde hair is cut short, highlighting her attractive facial features, but her best asset—rather assets—are her 36" upturned breasts. I check out most of the better men's magazines and have seen my share of shapely shebas, but I have to say that my wife's butterballs are the best-looking.

Our special experience began when the two of us were driving. We drive a beat-up, early model Dodge Dart, but it's a convertible, and this was a perfect day to put the top down.

We were roughly midway through the San Joaquin Valley on a pretty well-deserted stretch of road when Kim snuggled up next to me and began massaging my manhood.

Kim's high-standing, healthy hooters jutted out behind the stretched fabric of her black tank top, making it very tough for me to concentrate on the highway. With one hand on the wheel, I reached under her shirt, running a finger along the creamy crease of Kim's cones.

To my astonishment my newlywed spouse pulled her tank top completely off, exposing her heaving honeydews to anyone who happened to be driving by.

Soon, my wife was getting extremely excited by the attention she was receiving from all the passing trucks. We figured that the first trucker who had passed us CB-ed his fellow 18-wheelers about Kim's tits bouncing harnessly for their viewing enjoyment, thus causing a virtual convoy to speed up in order to see her treasured chest. Kim reached over with her left hand and released my rod from my trousers, for she knew that her exhibitionism was getting me hot as well.

The pace of Kim's pud-pulling increased, though I was still able to manipulate the car. But when Kim's right hand ventured down to pull off her Bermuda shorts, I had to get off the road.

As soon as the car was in park I dove into Kim's cunny. After eating her dripping honeypot, we went into the backseat so that we could recline and get into some heavy fucking, but we weren't alone. I looked up to see three truckers staring at my better half's nude frame. Kim was visibly nervous about this situation, but when one of the three men said that he had witnessed her wanton display on the highway, she relaxed a little bit and agreed to check out his sleeper.

Once inside the trucker's Kenworth, the three men undressed, passed around some rye and a few joints, and we all got friendly.

One of the three men, Joe, stuck his big, thick tool in Kim's face. I asked my wife if she'd like to suck Joe's cock, which she did; taking the entire length in her mouth with one hearty slurp. Seeing that huge schlong disappear made me ejaculate immediately, but when Lloyd moved behind the little woman to fuck her doggy-style, my prick perked up.

Each of the truckers took turns at my wife's mouth. The tempo was slow and seductive at first, but the pace and atmosphere became hot and heavy after Joe shot off in Kim's mouth. Low screams and deep groans escaped from Kim's throat as one trucker took her twat, while she busied herself with sucking another. By the time Kim asked Art to eat her pussy, I had already shot off three times. Cum was everywhere.

I suggested that the three of them try filling all of Kim's orifices at once, but the sleeper wasn't quite large enough to accommodate our four bodies intertwined. Besides, Kim was happy to take them on in rapid succession. As soon as one dick deflated after filling her flaps or mouth with sperm, another was ready to substitute.

Then Lloyd pushed the others aside so he could fuck my wife's fabulous tits. He leaned over Kim's face while on his knees so that his nuts and crack hung down over my better half's face. This position allowed me the sight of his hard-on burrowing between Kim's cleavage as she licked his ass while I ate her snatch.

What I can only describe as the sexiest scene I could ever imagine unfolded there before me. Lloyd's long piledriver moved slowly in and out between the doughy mountain range that Kim squeezed around his dick. Desperately, Kim tried to keep up with the man's movements so that she could keep nuzzling the trucker's nuts and licking his anus. Lloyd's legs were starting to give out; so he turned around in normal tit-fucking fashion to finish off the job.

I had to move to capture the moment, but only a moment later Lloyd groaned and sprayed Kim's face with his last load. All three men were spent; so we said goodbye and headed toward the rest area to wash up.

Needless to say, our weekend had already peaked before it started, but this only stoked the fire of fantasy that the truckers had ignited. As soon as we returned home to Orange County, we bought one of the swingers guides and networked with another couple so that Kim could eat another pussy while she got double-fucked.

Skeptical broadcaster reports on I.C.L. Process

"I found a permanent way to REGAIN A FULL HEAD OF HAIR!"

by Steve Ross

Philadelphia Radio/TV Personality

I was auditioning in a TV studio when I caught a glimpse of myself on the monitor. There on the screen was a balding area, more obvious than I had ever noticed before.

I went home and pulled out a videotape of an HBO special I'd hosted a few years before and it confirmed my worst suspicions. The cumulative effects of several years of gradual, almost imperceptible hair loss had added up more than I realized.

I Was Damned Scared!

I knew I had to do something. But what? How? Where?

Every Tom, Dick and Harry has a hair remedy—or so it seems. Their ads are all over—radio, TV, newspapers, magazines. How do you separate the real from the phony? It set my head spinning.

To make matters worse, I happen to be the world's biggest skeptic.

I Refused To Wear A Wig!

Remember, in my business, I'm in the public eye a lot. I didn't want people laughing or smirking because they could tell I was wearing a "rug." Any hair replacement would have to look natural or I couldn't do it.

It would also have to be done quickly. No prolonged surgery dragging out over many visits and many months like hair transplants. (Incidentally, I have a friend who tried a transplant, but the plugs didn't take. Instead of a full head of hair, he wound up with a head full of "holes.")

International Cosmetic Labs Had The Answer!

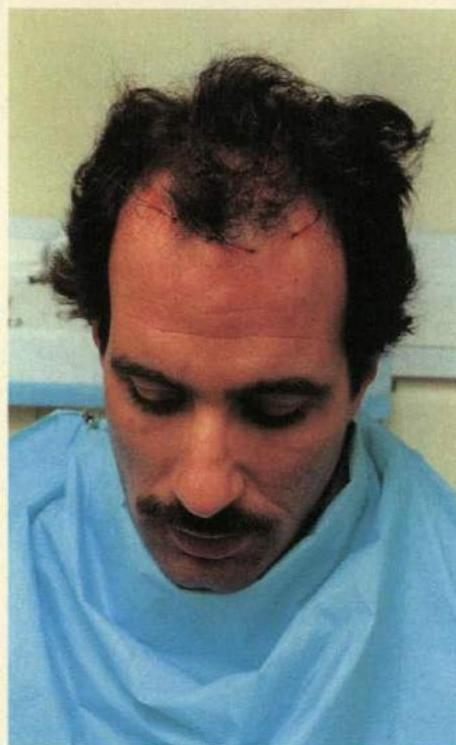

After weeks of searching and upon a final recommendation from a doctor friend of mine, I paid a visit to International Cosmetic Labs.

The first thing that impressed me was the fact that there was no hype, no high pressure selling. Instead, they more or less put my mind at ease by answering all of my questions completely.

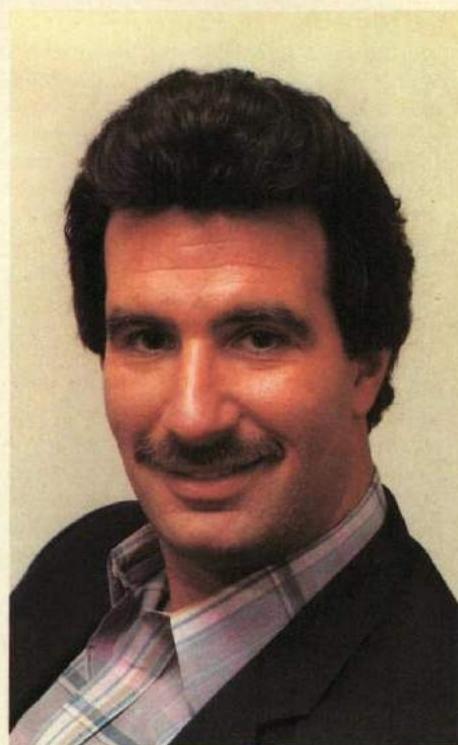

The I.C.L. Process, in case you're wondering, is designed for people who want a permanent head of hair and also like me, still have some hair of their own. It gives you a permanent, maintenance-free full head of hair. A combination of human and synthetic hair, "Cosmetic Hair Filaments" perfectly matched to your own hair color and texture are blended with your own hair, so that it's absolutely undetectable and becomes so much a part of you that you can do anything with it that you would do with your own natural hair. It is not a solid based hairpiece.

I Really Felt Good!

One thing about the I.C.L. Process, that for me was a "turn on," was the fact that for the most skeptical, which I initially was, the process is totally reversible. So at 12:30 on Friday afternoon, just 48 hours before I was to be married, I went to International. Three hours after the medical

Client Steve Ross undergoes the Medical Application of Cosmetic Hair Filaments being attached to his scalp by a staff Physician and a female assistant.

I Showered, Swam, Drove!

On our honeymoon in Key West, I was able to engage in all activities. I swam, dove off the board, everything!

My hair looks so natural no one would ever in a million years guess that all this hair isn't mine. Naturally, when I tell people about the I.C.L. Process, they insist on feeling my hair. And they agree: it not only looks like my own hair, it feels like it, too.

The next question I'm usually asked is whether there is any pain during the process. I admit I was a bit apprehensive right up to the moment the doctor started the procedure. But I never felt any pain during the procedure or afterward (although I understand some people may have some slight discomfort for a day or two).

I Recommend It Highly!

If, like me, you're concerned with always looking your best, you really should visit, write, or telephone I.C.L. for more information about their exclusive process. They do provide a FREE BROCHURE. Just write or call at 209 Office Building, Rt. 130 South, Cinnaminson, NJ 08077, or call toll free 1-800-262-8844 and from out of the country or Canada, please call 1-609-829-4300.

BITS and PIECES

A S S H O L E O F T H E M O N T H

For disgracing the male gender with his spineless attempt to prey on a rich elderly lady, Peter Holm is Asshole of the Month.

Better known as Mr. Joan Collins, this foreign feces funnel has been the source of much wasted news space about his reverse alimony demands. After only 13 months of marriage, Dynasty's queen bitch bounced this Swedish meatball, her fourth divorce. This was Holm's first, and publicity could flush this turd's chance of snaring another unsuspecting woman who is suffering mid-life crisis to butter his bread.

The 54-year-old Collins earned fame revealing her imposing but saggy butterbags in films like The Bitch and The Stud, more recently wrapping the dangling gazongas in glamorous gowns for television, where her meager talent earns her about $5 million a year. As her business manager, 40-year-old Holm milked off a cool million as his agreed-upon share of Joan's income, but claims it was all spent on things like gifts for his wife.

Now, the dipshit wants Collins to pay him $80,000 a month, including $16,500 for rent and $7,295 for cars.

Holm gets attention like a pile of shit on a white-shag rug. He locked himself inside the Collins residence, from which he was to be evicted, complete with a gossip-sucking media gang that gobbled Holm's caviar and champagne, as well as his bullshit about needing 80 grand of someone else's income to live.

The same media that bestowed hero status on scum like Ollie North subjects Holm to similar tough scrutiny. The press has failed to grill this dilettante about why (a) he can't get a waiter's job, cheap apartment and compact car like all the other failed rock stars in L.A., and (b) why he doesn't sponge off his "passion flower," the woman who testified that Holm was boning her even as he allegedly confessed plans to skin Joan using California's equal-property divorce clause.

Holm is not even a good enough laugh to justify the waste of taxpayer time and money for his case. The argument that it will set standards for other men who want to seek alimony overlooks the fact that American men—even faggots—would rather collect pop bottles for deposit than stoop to dangling from a woman's purse or apron strings.

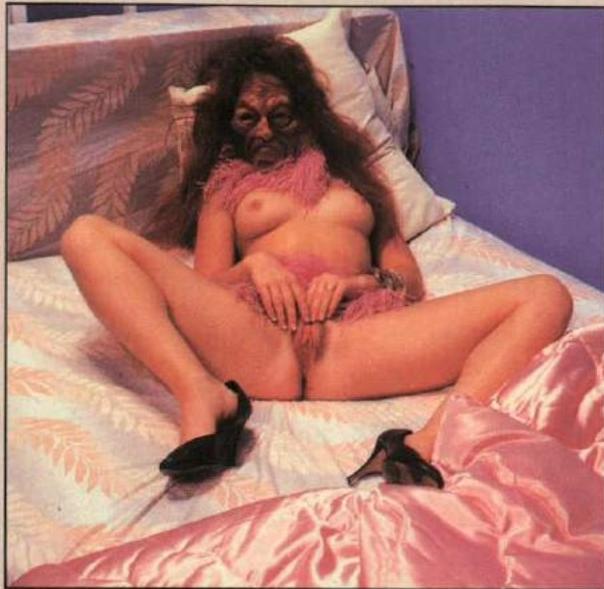

We hope Holm gets only enough money to tuck his limp tail against his lazy ass and return to Sweden, where many people solve their personal problems from the ledge of a bridge.

Animal Experimentation

It's shocking, but true! Hundreds of furry critters—former victims of vivisection—have turned the tables on their tormentors. Medical science may never be the same, but at least the cartoon studios will soon have a whole new cast of characters to choose from.

Old Porn Stars Never Die...

Once-lovely Mona Gash, star of many of those classic turn-of-the-century porn loops, is having trouble getting work these days. She's taken care of her body over the years, but an unfortunate plastic surgery mishap has made competition with the younger girls difficult. Still, HUSTLER has always believed in giving veterans a break, and Mona is one seasoned matress soldier. In addition, she's been single-handedly keeping the local paper-bag industry in business.

Kick Out the Jammies

Things are getting out of hand. Those dangerous rock lyrics full of satanic messages have infected younger minds. Now, child rockers are causing trouble all over the USA.

These kids refuse to take naps or walk the dog, and boldly proclaim, "Bon Jovi is neat. But for real fun, we like to eat beef jerky, drink Kool-Aid and beat the sitter with a Manilow record."

Coming Clean

Say goodbye to grimy dingleberries and ring-around-the-colon with Gayjax, the mighty asshole cleanser that takes the dirt out of sodomy. Just one wipe, and you'll put a smile on that unhappy ass crack. Gayjax will give you cleaner, brighter bowels in seconds! No more rusty wrists from a filthy fist-fuck! Gayjax's power can manhandle even the toughest assholes and makes safe sex fairy simple.

New Age S&M

Prepare yourself for the newest fad—the Yukkies, Young Urban Kinky Professionals. Sure, they use designer whips and low-cal body gel, but beneath the trendy trappings it's simply a return to the old-fashioned basics of bondage and discipline. They may not make the cover of Newsweek, but the Yukkies have figured out that getting down and dirty is just good clean fun.

Gonorrhealism

Talulu LaDreck is seen here, hard at work on her latest masterpiece, Blister's Mother. Ms. LaDreck is at the forefront of the new venerealistic movement that's taken many critics by surprise, and left a few of them sore. Some call it genius, some mere clap-trap; so the question remains: Is it gross, but is it art?

Last Train to Cuntsville

If Freud was right, then there is something vaguely sexual about the sight of a locomotive entering a tunnel, especially if the tunnel is actually a gaping vagina. What the hell, isn't this where most people's trains of thought are headed anyway?

FUN WITH OLLIE

Born to be wi-i-i-i-i-ild!

Fuck the new seat-belt ordinances.
I'm above the law!

Lt. Col. Oliver North, after making sure his full military uniform is perfect, takes a trip to McDonald's.

More Bangs for Your Bucks

A new specialty magazine is taking aim at the newsstand, and judging from early sales, it should shoot straight to the top. From nostalgic journeys to the Dallas book depository, to photographic essays on the poetry of exit wounds, Gunning Times definitely has something for the little bit of sicko in everyone.

Reaping As He Sows

Nick Bowcott, of head-banging Brit rockers Grim Reaper, paid a visit to the HUSTLER offices the other day during a trip to Los Angeles. Here he is seen perusing a recent issue of America's favorite skin mag in the room where most of our editorial inspiration takes place. And speaking of plugs, check out Rock You to Hell, Grim Reaper's new disc of metallic fun. It's the ideal music to read HUSTLER by.

AA or Bust

Hastings, Minnesota—71-year-old Alfred Joseph O'Connor, a self-styled alcohol-abuse counselor, is being prosecuted over his controversial treatment. O'Connor claimed to be able to help people overcome their drinking problems by making them strip naked and then flogging them. He's pleaded guilty to fourth-degree criminal sexual assault charges in the case of a 17-year-old boy whom he whipped on the buttocks, hands and feet. The spry old pervert testified that he received sexual gratification in this way. No word on whether the boy's alcohol problems were affected, or if a rubbing-alcohol-abuse pattern was created.

Fatally Yours

Lima, Peru—Dionicio Vela faces at least five years in jail for leaving his wife behind in their jungle village while he went on a business trip that lasted longer than usual. Seems he took the key to his wife's chastity belt with him, as always. Unfortunately, the lock was rusty, and poor Mrs. Vela died of blood poisoning she contracted by the time he got back. Trust can be a very healthy thing in a marriage.

Judge Not, Lest....

Seattle, Washington—Sociologist Pepper Schwartz, of the University of Washington, suggested that it's time to come up with a new word for adultery. "Infidelity," "cheating" and "two-timing" all sound rather harsh and condemnatory, considering many Americans no longer consider it such a big sin. (At least, judging by how many engage in the practice.) Schwartz has suggested the more neutral term "non-monogamy." Unfortunately, this innocuous term doesn't make it sound fun anymore.

To make up for it, the firm now also offers packages for bosses' wives and their boyfriends. The 280 different hotels involved considerably reduce the chances of unfortunate encounters.

Wonderful Copenhagen

Copenhagen, Denmark—The condom ads that are appearing here and in other Danish cities would probably be a bit much for most North Americans to take. One shows a giant condom that stretches the length of a bus. Posters in Denmark's schools and libraries show a naked man and woman embracing with the caption "Sex is fun—and it should stay that way." And to think public libraries in the U.S. are still catching flak over carrying Huckleberry Finn.

Just when you thought the butt-plug had been pulled on anal tapes, along comes the elder statesman of brown-eye, director Hal Freeman, with the seventh edition of his immensely popular Caught From Behind series. This latest fudge-frolic, however, has a peculiar slant. With emphasis on loving relationships, an abundance of kissing, teasing and lovey-dovey foreplay, Caught 7 is the XXX-industry's first couples butt-fuck movie! Though Freeman previously has been better served scriptwise—to describe this one as lame is generous—the camerawork is crystal clear, never strays from the well-lit action and delivers enough close-ups of cock pounding cunt, lips wanking wang and dick dorking dumper to stain the briefs of the most demanding porneur. Veteran Lisa DeLeeuw backs out

With more than a thousand hard-core movies being released each year for the home audience, viewers, increasingly confronted by seductive advertising and slick packaging, are often at a loss when it comes to of retirement for two scenes (one anal—it's not her first, as the intentionally confusing advertising implies) and top billing, though awesome-bod butt-girl Penny Morgan is the story's focus. The turd-tickling is done by three heavy-hung studs, Peter North, Frank James and Chris Reed—whose down-curved dick stretches the sphincters of three of the four lasses' asses. For couples? Maybe. For buns-busters? Definitely. —D. O.

SEX SCENE

A VICTORY FOR VICE

In the United States, porn stars are reviled as hookers and low-life scum. In Italy, they're elected to Parliament. Cicciolina, Italy's most famous cocksucker, ran for a seat in the Chamber of Deputies on a "more pornography equals knowledge and non-violence" platform—and won. An Italian feminist explained the victory this way: "Even a porn star is more virginal than most politicians." You can see what all the voting was about in Paradise Visuals' just-released Rise of the Roman Empress, starring Cicciolina, John Holmes and Amber Lynn. Eat your heart out, Gary.

ORAL MAJORITY 3

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Starring Rachel Ryan, Buddy Love, Taija Rae, Nina Hartley, Amber Lynn Careena Collins, Erica Boyer, Krista Lane, Siobhan Hunter, Sharon Mitchell, Elle Rio, Summer Rose, Patti Petite, Regine Bardot, Paula Harlow and Jeanna Fine. Videocassette by Western Visuals.

Oral Majority 3 has almost as much cunt-brunching as it does cock-lunching, perhaps indicating that producer Jerome Tanner is running short of recyclable blowjobs. Most of the oral-genital contact in this compilation tape is of the foreplay variety, cutting quickly from lips on dick or clit to the climactic load launch, usually on buns or belly. Although this approach has the advantage of eliminating all that tedious in-and-out, there is a downside lack of hot jizz splattering smiling slut faces—except one scene of John Holmes oozing extra-thick cream-of-cumbo onto the entwined tongues of two kissing cunts. Oral 3 has all the visual elegance and sex superstars that, in part, the informed viewer expects from Jerome Tanner production. Oral also has a host and hostess (Buddy Love and Rachel Ryan) who inject charisma and personality between mouth-to-pud clips, staying onscreen just long enough to prove that porn stars are better seen sucking than speaking.

DEBBIE DUZ DISHES: EPISODE III

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Damon Christian; starring Nina Hartley, Joey Silvera, Siobhan Hunter, John Leslie, Jon Martin, Alexis Greco, Angel Kelly, Mike Horner, Betty Boobs, Richard Pacheco and Jack Baker. Videocassette by Adult Video Corporation.

Nothing is sacred in Debbie Duz III. Everything—religion, race, sex, politics, the Constitution—becomes the butt of satirical, sarcastic comment. With so much emphasis on script, lengthy dialogue and production values, however, something has to suffer, and that something is the sex. While there are a couple of truly sweltering couplings, the majority of the horizontal motion is rather mundane. Definitely a Nina Hartley vehicle, she shines in and out of the sack. Her two safe-sex fucks are somewhat comical—particularly with John Leslie, who fumbles removing his condom so he can jizz her butt—but it's Hartley's scene with prison guard Alexis Greco that'll really stiffen your rod: During a strip-search, Greco feels around every nook and cranny until Hartley consents to a more intimate investigation, and the two wind up violating a few local ordinances before Hartley is released. Raunch fans may be disappointed by DDD III's softer focus on sex (few monster shots, safe-sex, endless dialogue), and couples will probably object to the tape's lack of emotion, but if you're in the market for 90 minutes of adult entertainment, look no further.

NOVEMBER HUSTLER

V IDEO OF THE MONTH

Tongues wag in the orgy-finale and Tamara Longley's S&M fantasy.

Tony Montana pumps Blondi in Irene II's hottest workout.

PLAYPEN

Shot on Film.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Larry Revene; starring Barbara Dare, Leslie Winston, Tamara Longley, Cassandra Leigh, Sheri St. Clair, Siobhan Hunter, Robert Bullock, Jerry Butler, Michael Knight, Billy Dee, Frank Serrone and Tony Stone. Videocassette by VCA Pictures.

Playpen is a more-penile-than-penal women's-prison flick—with a twist. In this nutty satire the star inmates are a writer, musician, fashion designer, scientist—mad, naturally—and their rich groupie, Barbara Dare. Their task is to party and put out, or suffer the dread consequence: parole. Until tough, no-nonsense new warden Robert Bullock arrives, that is. Bullock demands that the girls increase their output of books, plays, songs and designs, and announces that his cut of the royalties will be 50%. When Cassandra Leigh tries to soften him up with a blowjob, he comes, sneeringly thanks her, then raises his royalty take to 75%. The excellent script (by John Blaise) is by turns offbeat, eccentric and witty, the acting is superb—as is the directing—and the sex is hot and frequent enough so you don't have to keep reminding yourself that it's a fuck film you're watching—unlike some of producer Chuck Vincent's other movies. Sex scenes of note include Frank Serrone balling Dare, and Longley's fantasy in which she works over whimpering slave Bullock. This searing scene is imaginatively photographed, has great sound and showcases Longley's awesome oral technique. Playpen provokes laughs and hard-ons in equal measure and is a refreshing departure from the video sludge that has saturated mid-'80s porn. D.O.

CLUB BED

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Ron Jeremy; starring Krista Lane, Ron Jeremy, Bionca, Scott Irish, Don Fernando, Laurie P., Jane Daniel and Jan Sanders. Videocassette by L.A. Video.

Shot in the least exotic of locations—a backyard and a bedroom—Club Bed is only a mildly diverting vacation for voyeurs. Krista Lane fares best in this conventional poke 'n' stroke, banging her beaver hard against the rigid rods of Don Fernando and Scott Irish—just watching those gravity-defying tits is a treat in itself—and Penny Morgan scores impressively in her all-too-brief scene with new stud Jan Sanders. Unfortunately, judging by the ho-hum humps turned in by the rest of the cast, everyone else stayed up too late the night before the shoot. Newcomers Laurie P. and Jane Daniel are attractive and intriguing performers, but they need a few more stiff ones between the labia to loosen them up. The camerawork is a bit fuzzy, which is less of a problem when there's some heat to film. Club Bed is strictly routine.

PUMPING IRENE II

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by C.C. Williams; starring Lois Ayres, Angel Kelly, Elle Rio, Randy West, Peter North, Blondi, Brittany Stryker and Tony Montana. Videocassette by Fantasy Home Video.

The waning muscle craze leaves Irene (Lois Ayres) and her partners (Angel Kelly and Elle Rio) with an empty fitness center. Undaunted, Irene outfits a van as a traveling muscle factory, and turns up on the doorstep of a football coach (Randy West) and one of his players (Peter North). Minor script glitches dot the video, but they don't interfere with the excitement: When the pumping pussy-partners take advantage of their empty gym, it's hot! When Ayres gives West a complimentary workout—she squats on his face before squeezing his muscle—he sweats, and so will you. Surprisingly, Blondi and Tony Montana provide the best raunch. You may think you can't watch this mate-for-life pair fuck one more time, but this scene really works: She dives on his dick, and before long they're balling in all sorts of acrobatic positions. Meanwhile, North challenges Kelly and Rio to some strip pool, and everyone's naked before you can say, "Rack 'em!" Elle Rio proves again that what she lacks in acting talent she more than makes up for in depravity. She engulfs male and female organs—and pool cues—with equal lust, displaying a pure, wanton sexuality that is sorely lacking in today's shoot-'em-and-ship-'em video market. Irene II has some production flaws, but chances are you'll be too busy pumping your muscle to notice.

SEX STYLES OF THE RICH AND FAMOUS

Shot on Video.

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by J. Angel Martini; starring Melissa Melendez, Siobhan Hunter, Ashley Welles, Susan Liberace, Joey Santini, Michael Knight, George Payne and Rod Retta. Videocassette by Video-X-Pix.

It may come as a shock, but Sex Styles of the Rich and Famous, complete with an ultra-smarmy, British-accented host and guide, is an X-rated takeoff of an unmentionably horrid TV show. The interview segments of Sex Styles, with porn stars parroting celebrities, are broken up by sex scenes of varying degrees of salaciousness. The problem is that most of the carnality is fairly ordinary. What good are good production values in the face of so-so unions? Styles' best visual is an extremely close shot of George Payne's cock head moving in and out of Melissa Melendez's mouth as he straddles her chest. As for the rest of it, aside from one Michael Knight load spilled on the buttock and thigh of Susan Liberace, these Sex Styles are poor and better off unknown. —C. S.

GENITAL HOSPITAL

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by B. Floriani; starring Buffy Davis, Doran O'Dare, Wayne Stevens, Tammi White, Candi Evans, Tippi London, Honey Wilder, Marc Wallace, Johnny Lincoln, Regine Bardot, Robert Bullock, Penny Morgan, Michael Wilde and Abundancy Jones. Videocassette by Essex Video.

This SCTV-like spunk-sprinkled spoof of regulation television, complete with station identifications, newsbreaks and copious parodies of commercials, starts off with a strong dose of smartass, gross-out humor, but eventually disintegrates to sub-Hee Haw stupidity. Though there is momentary respite in scenes of mirror-image munching of near-twin twats Buffy Davis and Tammi White, Regine Bardot's wog butt wagging on Johnny Lincoln's tongue, Candi Evans's perfect nether-globes and a whirlwind white-wand dicking of tits-a-plenty dinge Abundancy Jones, the gonad play of Genital does little to prevent a steady deterioration into dullness. Delaying penile penetration of pussy until the picture's halfway point and closing with a pair of wadless porkings are symptoms of sluggish smutmaking. Genital Hospital has too few vital signs to survive. —C. S.

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Jack Remy; starring Keisha, Siobhan Hunter, Shanna McCullough, Nikki Knights, Dana Dylan, Buddy Love, Billy Dee, Sasha Gabor and Shone Taylor. Videocassette by Vidco.

Raising Hell is part goofy fun, part blistering heat and entirely watchable. Siobhan Hunter and Buddy Love run a magic shop that's in the business doldrums; so Hunter lets sexy neighbor Shanna McCullough turn their warehouse into a brothel. Needless to say, it's not long before business and boners are booming. The action in this makeshift whorehouse is scintillating stuff. Noteworthy are a threeway with Dana Dylan and Nikki Knights dressed as cheerleaders, doing the splits on Billy Dee's meat megaphone, and an encore the girls perform with Keisha and a huge double-dong dildo. This steamy snatch-slurp is Raising's highlight. For those who like a little silliness with their slit-slammimg, a dominatrix sequence with Keisha and Sasha Gabor is a carnal chuckle. Most of the sex in Raising Hell is hot and humpy—there's even some decent acting thrown in! The technical quality is also admirable, and though this tape will not elevate the level of porn filmmaking, it will raise more than hell. —S. L.

WET AND WILD

Shot on Video.

Totally Limp. Directed by Bill Blackman; starring Blöndi, Nikki Randall, Laurie Smith, Tiffany Wild, Don Fernando, Scott Irish, Tony Montana and Ron Jeremy. Videocassette by Video Exclusives.

A better title might be Cheap and Stupid. Yet another sub-routine offering from the producer/director team of Mark Curtis and Ron Jeremy (a/k/a Bill Blackman), Wet and Wild serves up its sex scenes with pudginess predictability. There was a time not so long ago when a Mark Curtis video was lovingly lensed, had hot sex and was produced with care and craftsmanship. Now a Mark Curtis video is something you hold by two fingers at arm's length. The single best thing on this tape is the presence of Tiffany Wild. She may not set it aflame, but the tawny, tattooed Afro-slit has a body and face worth watching. The cast also includes the once-lovely Laurie Smith, Blöndi fucking Tony Montana—but you knew that—and Nikki Randall, who's okay—just—as far as second-string fuck-holes go. Nobody on this tape does anything with much enthusiasm or passion. Wet and Wild? Not hardly.

HOT SPOT

ANGELA BARON

From the perfect globes of her ass to the best tits money can buy, sultry Angela Baron has the stuff that hard-ons are made from. Not only that, she knows what to do with 'em when they're throbbing for action. Baron's beaver soaks up every hammer thrust a stud can deliver as she bucks, humps and arches her back to meet the meat. Still new to XXX, this Teutonic goddess definitely has what it takes to stay around for a long time. As far as we're concerned, judging from her performances in Where There's Smoke, There's Fire and Guess Who Came at Dinner?, she can stick around forever.

THE MILE HIGH GIRLS

Shot on Video and Film.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Bob Vosse; starring Erica Boyer, Porsche Lynn, Viper, Jon Martin, John Leslie, Rex Nemo, Buddy Love, Joey Silvera, Tom Byron and Jason Jules. Videocassette by Caballero Home Video.

This saga of flight crews, horny stews and airborne screws has all the elements to make you spew your goo. Enhanced by film of exotic Far East locales, Mile High Girls is a slickly produced tape that has several hot scenes and two very hot female leads: Erica Boyer and Porsche Lynn. Boyer starts things off by blowing pilot Jon Martin. No simple sucker, Erica lavishes a loving licking to Martin's meat before he dicks her in the cockpit. In the very next scene, Porsche gives John Leslie a dork-throating before they fuck—and then again when they're done. These super-fine wenches take time out from sucking and fucking Rex Nemo and Tom Byron to share a lengthy and lusty pussy-break, assisted by the vibrating stream of a shower massage nozzle—a scene that is several cuts above the industry standard. Exceptionally crisp, clear camerawork and the torrid talents of Boyer and Lynn make Mile High Girls a first-class ticket.

John Leslie primes poon in Wet Strokes.

WET STROKES

Shot on Video.

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by Duck Dumont; starring John Leslie, Tracey Adams, Gail Force, Angel Kelly, Nikki Knights, Joey Silvera, Mike Horner, Billy Dee and Jon Martin. Videocassette by M.D. Distributing.

Ever wonder what the princes of porn would do if they ran out of ideas? Wonder no more. They'd make a snoozer like this one, as dull a peter-beater as can be found nowadays. Oh, the stars are fine: Tracey Adams eats pussy well, but her hetero heat is hardly exploited; Joey Silvera has a three-way with Nikki Knights and Gail Force; Jon Martin and Billy Dee royally dick Angel Kelly while Tracey peeks, but she doesn't get turned-on enough to play with herself—which is only one of Wet's problems. Another is that when she does whack off in an earlier scene, she's still wearing her panties, half-hiding her cooze from the viewer. The biggest error of all, though, is that the production isn't really edited. The scenes run on and on—one long, monotonous shot after another. Also, the story's hook is really no hook at all: Hubby John Leslie says he's going out for cigarettes. While he's gone, 90% of the sex takes place. He returns "10 months later—for a swimming lesson." No, it doesn't make sense, but even if it did, Wet Strokes would not be much improved.

—Dix Handley

A LITTLE DOVETAIL

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Richard Mailer; starring Brittany Morgan, Keli Richards, Janette Little Dove, Liz Alexandra, Kimberly Bern, Buck O. Rogers, Tony Montana, Francois Papillon and Jace Rocker. Videocassette by Intropics Video.

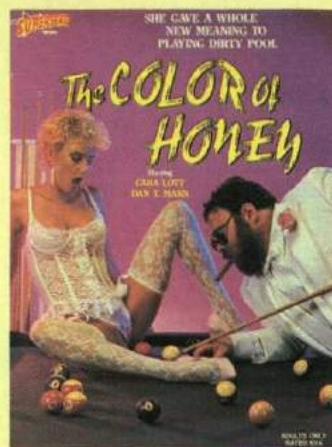

The title is somewhat misleading. Janette Little Dove is in this sexvid, but far from undulating her udders from one end of the tape to the other, she merely has one sex scene. The "Dove" in this little tale is the last name of a sleazy reporter (Buck O. Rogers) out to get the scoop on a recently deceased millionaire couple (Francois Papillon and Keli Richards). While finding out about their steamy sexual past, he probes a few openings of his own. Prime among Rogers's exploits are a sizzling muff-munch and cunt-cleaving of pouty Brittany Morgan. Also of interest are the Richards/Tony Montana butt-buster, and Papillon fucking the fillings out of Little Dove. The acting is inept, and some hollow sound also makes for trouble, otherwise Dovetail is a sloppy, but somewhat better-than-average pud-puller.

THE COLOR OF HONEY

Shot on Video.

Totally Limp. Directed by Jerry Balsam; starring Cara Lott, Dan T. Mann, Lacy Logan, Carmella, Dana Dylan and Ron Jeremy. Videocassette by Superstar Video.

Cara Lott got her tits done, and, man, that wasn't a good idea. At her best, the pre-flotation Cara was a lean and mean white-trash slut. The new, "improved" Ms. Lott is a lean and mean white-trash slut with big hunks of plastic sewn inside her chest. Those tits look every bit as hard and phony as the billiard balls she pushes around in this miserable attempted takeoff of The Color of Money. Dan T. Mann, Cara's screen husband, is getting it on with his boss lady, Carmella. Cara wants to be a pool hustler, but takes time out for a boring masturbation scene in a shower, to have a pointless lesbian encounter with Lacy Logan and to get cued by Ron Jeremy. There are also a few appearances by a corpulent geek in a white tux who's supposed to be Minnesota Fats. In the finale, Mann brings home the boss and bones her and Cara on the pool table. Snore. In the pool tournament of porn, The Color of Honey scratches.

As the prairie dusk fades into night, Jerkwater Falls County Sheriff Roscoe Hogswill pulls his department-issue 4X4 Jimmy into a pair of parking spots in front of Tiny's Adult Book & Video Emporium. A few flies buzz discontentedly around a pile of horseshit the sheriff has run over, but no one else notices Hogswill dismount, adjust his Houston Knights hat, hike his holstered cannon up onto his hip and cock-walk into the Adult Emporium. "Evnin', Tiny," drawls the sheriff to a 300-pound seven-footer behind the counter.

"Howdy, Sheriff Hogswill," replies Tiny, with perfectly suppressed enthusiasm. Tiny watches the sheriff saunter around the shop, surveying the racks of suck books, fuck books and suck-and-fuck books, then glancing at display-cased dildos, cock rings and joy jellies. That little bowlegged cowboy faggot is in here to shake me down again, thinks Tiny, mouth twisting in bitter distaste. The sheriff idly shuffles a deck of pornographic playing cards. "Well, Tiny, whattaya have that might interest a feller that's looking for a little somethin' different?"

"Let's see," says Tiny, checking his video stock. "We got this Blacks & Blondes series; we got White Bun Busters."

B&D ON THE RUN

The current censorship insanity has hit hardest in the field of bondage-and-discipline magazines and tapes.

"Yep, I seen those already." The sheriff smacks his lips and winks appreciatively. "Say, now, you don't have any of those animal-sex things, do you?"

"Ain't much call for that around these parts." Tiny gazes fondly down at his dog, Catherine, sleeping peacefully at his feet. "Folks around here don't have no need for that stuff," says Tiny.

"No, I suppose not," agrees Hogswill, thinking wistfully of his pony, Dorchen. "And I don't guess you got any of that kiddie-porn in stock, old stuff maybe lying around?"

Tiny's neck flushes. Catherine stirs uneasily in her sleep. "You ain't got no business even askin' me about that, Hogswill, and you know better," growls Tiny.

"Don't go gettin' mad on me, Tiny. I'm just doing my job; nothing personal here." The sheriff calmly turns his back on Tiny and moseys over to a specialty section of the shop. "What about these bondage things? Don't you think we could just get rid of them; then we'll leave you alone? Cain't be much market for this tied-up stuff, I reckon."

I knew it, thinks Tiny. Now they're after the B&D. Well, it could be worse.

"I guess you're right there, Sheriff. Not many people will be missing that stuff if it does go. I'll get all them roped-raunch and knotty-naughties off the shelves just as soon as me and Catherine close up tonight."

"Ain't no need for you two to put yourselves out. I think I can handle this bunch right here," defers Hogswill, scooping videos and magazines into a large mailsack he's brought along just for this purpose. "I'll be back again to see you real soon."

"I'm sure you will." Tiny looks forlornly into Catherine's caring eyes.

Later that evening, in a back room of the Jerkwater Falls County Courthouse, Sheriff Hogswill hoists his gunbelt under his protruding belly and concludes a retelling of his daring victory over Tiny's Adult Book & Video Emporium.

"And now you all can feel secure in knowin' our community has been restored to an acceptable standard of decency." As Hogswill looks for a place to spit and, finding none, swallows, his audience—Jerkwater Falls County Supervisor, Christians Against Filth organizer and rabid anti-fuck feminist Edna Parchfur—breathes a sigh of relief.

"God praise Edwin Meese and his righteous commission for his guidance and blessing," hymns Parchfur. Nothing matches the inner-fired fanaticism of a full-blown censor who has had a little bit of success. Having eliminated open sales of B&D materials in her community, Parchfur is happy now, but it won't last for long. Even as Hogswill visualizes Dorchen's equine face as the two share the joys of Tit-Tied and Tortured, Disciplined Dainties and Bound for Pleasure, Parchfur dreams of bigger, more extreme thrills. Perhaps soon she can eliminate depictions of lesbian sex, threeways, kinky positions or uncircumcised pricks. As her primly withered hands creep beneath her starched dress toward the dessicated folds between her atrophied thighs, we fade out, screaming, "No, please, God, no. Let us wake up; we must be dreaming!"

We're the first to admit that our Jerkwater Falls scenario may seem like a ridiculous exaggeration of human behavior. As is often the case when sexual liberty and First Amendment freedoms come under attack from goons masquerading as objective arbiters of normalcy, reality itself has deteriorated to the level of an absurd farce. The current censorship insanity, as manifested and encouraged by the unreasonable, unsound and incongruous Meese Commission Report, has hit hardest in the field of bondage-and-discipline magazines and tapes.

Even the most casual porn-store customer has become familiar with such titles as Bound to Please, Ties That Bind, Hogtie, Tamed & Tortured, Asses in Bondage, Boob & Body Bondage, Knocked-Up and Knotted, Lactating Lesbo Lockup and countless others. Though the stream of servile smut seemed endless, aficionados and casual observers alike may soon find a sharply reduced B&D variety and selection. Manufacturers, distributors and wholesalers of specialty books and tapes are prepared to panic. Veiled government threats, quasi-legal suppressive tactics by Fundamentalist and feminist groups, and the general climate of chauvinistic, moralistic lunacy engendered by that poultry-necked chickenhead in the White House have curtailed the bound-and-begging-porn supply chain.

There have so far been no successful prosecutions specifically based upon sales and manufacture of materials depicting a person being put into restraints by another person for sexual gratification. Entrepreneurs are phasing out this facet of the business due to the mere threat of possible prosecution. Although such a threat is a form of prior censorship prohibited by the Constitution, the effort to fight it and expose it takes more time and money than most B&D businesspeople are willing to spend.

Caryn: BEDSIDE MANNERS

Curvaceous Caryn still thinks the bed is the best place for sex, even though she's tried everything from bareback on horseback to on top of the washer during the spin cycle.

"Some of my most erotic moments have come in my dreams," Caryn confesses, to explain her preference for percale perversion. "There's just no topping the sort of man you can conjure in your imagination. A man who can touch me firm but not rough, who's as good with his tongue as his dick, and is as hungry for sex as I am." You'd think your dreams had come true if you could prove you have what it takes to take Caryn for a toss in the sheets.

B&D ON THE RUN (continued from page 32)

One insider estimates that the number of bondage magazines available has been cut by half.

Consider these recent developments on the repression front:

*Store owners across the country are removing B&D materials from their shelves due to pressures from local church grandmothers and self-promoting politicos. Even in seemingly permissive Los Angeles, Drake's Bookstore—though otherwise offering a complete selection of sexual books, films and toys—declines to stock any bondage visuals. Paranoia? Phoenix, Arizona, and many locales throughout the South have a reputation for closing down any stores that deal in B&D.

*As a result of intimidation from roving packs of fanged pussy, professional-victim feminist coalitions, some retailers have been harried into cutting loose their all-male gay-bondage books.

*The federal government has launched a new campaign of mail-order schemes. Feds have camped out in tight-ass states, where G-men believed they would benefit from uptight, restrictive community standards. The recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling that wiped out the "community standards" clause may force adjustments in the agents' practice of ordering a variety of smut to be delivered to a P.O. box, all at taxpayer expense. Once the materials arrive, the mail-order company receives summonses, subpoenas and all the other bull wris that go into setting up a case, hearing and trial.

*Fearing a stacked-deck, kangaroo-court brand of justice, the smart money in specialty-sex shops refuses to fill orders from certain states, the most mentioned being the Carolinas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia and the Virginias.

*General men's sophisticates have sharply curtailed their B&D coverage, as have erstwhile manufacturers and distributors of fetish magazines. One insider estimates that the number of bondage magazines available has been cut by half. All this without benefit of representation or due process. Welcome to Moscow.

"The first publications to suffer are always those that reflect minority sexual twists," says Barry Lynn of the American Civil Liberties Union, commenting on the method behind the machinations. "Then the never-ending censors will go after whatever material is left that reflects uncommon sexual interests. Eventually, we wake up and discover that the whole field has washed away."

B&D is a prime target for censorious snipers, a sitting duck ready to be picked off. The Meese klatch's so-called findings purport that a link exists between pornography and violence, despite reputable scientific conclusions to the contrary.

"They consider us violent, and they have to make a show with somebody," complains Stacy Brant of New York's Bizarre Video, makers of soft-core, play-acted restraint videos. "I see much more violence and horrible stuff happen on television."

"They themselves [the porn-maligning experts] are uninformed," explains Wilton Place, publisher of the ever-informative and fascinating Fetish Times, concerning the blanket connection between bondage and violence. "They don't know the difference between B&D and S&M." Bondage, per se, has nothing to do with pain, humiliation, degradation or torture. And yet, the attorney general's minions grouped S&M, B&D and sexual rape together.

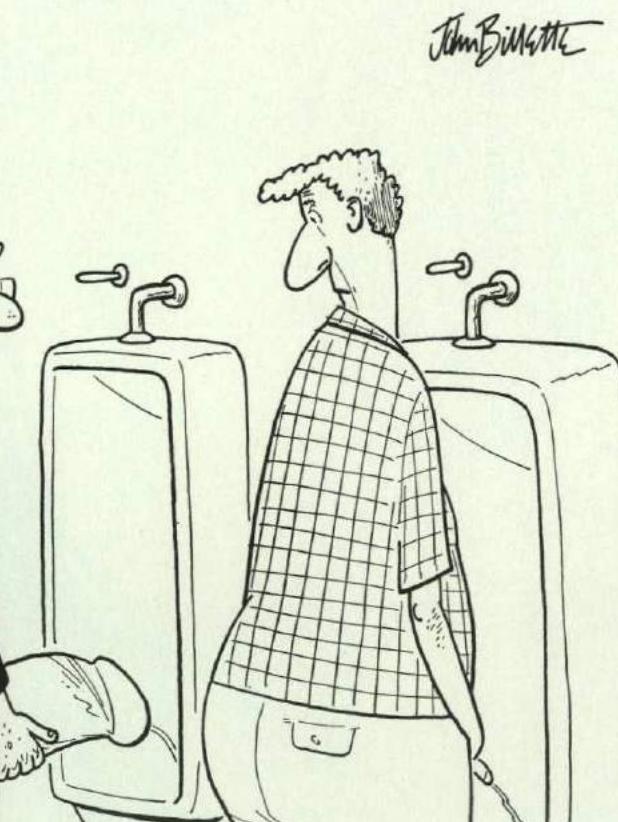

By associating loving restraints between friends with torturous forced entry, sex haters have a self-inflated justification for focusing their snuff efforts on B&D. But their real motives may, in fact, have much more to do with logistics than with ideals.

"Who else are they going to go after?" bewail the B&D barons. Officials have spent years trying to stop pornography, squandering hundreds of millions of tax dollars, and they haven't succeeded. Since past attempts to prosecute ordinary hard-core have proven impotent, the dogs of bore are forced to sniff out a less-hearty freedom to violate.

The craven censorious canines would love to get a leg up on boy/boy or girl/girl adult graphics, but gay-rights groups would have them yelping all the way back to their kennels. Instead, these curs drool over past victories over kiddie-porn and bestiality, varieties of smut that share two basic traits: Neither ever had a very large base audience, and both are abhorrent to women's groups. The only thing left smelling of minority kink that is also a good bet to be feared and reviled by females banded together in the cause of repression of other females is bondage.

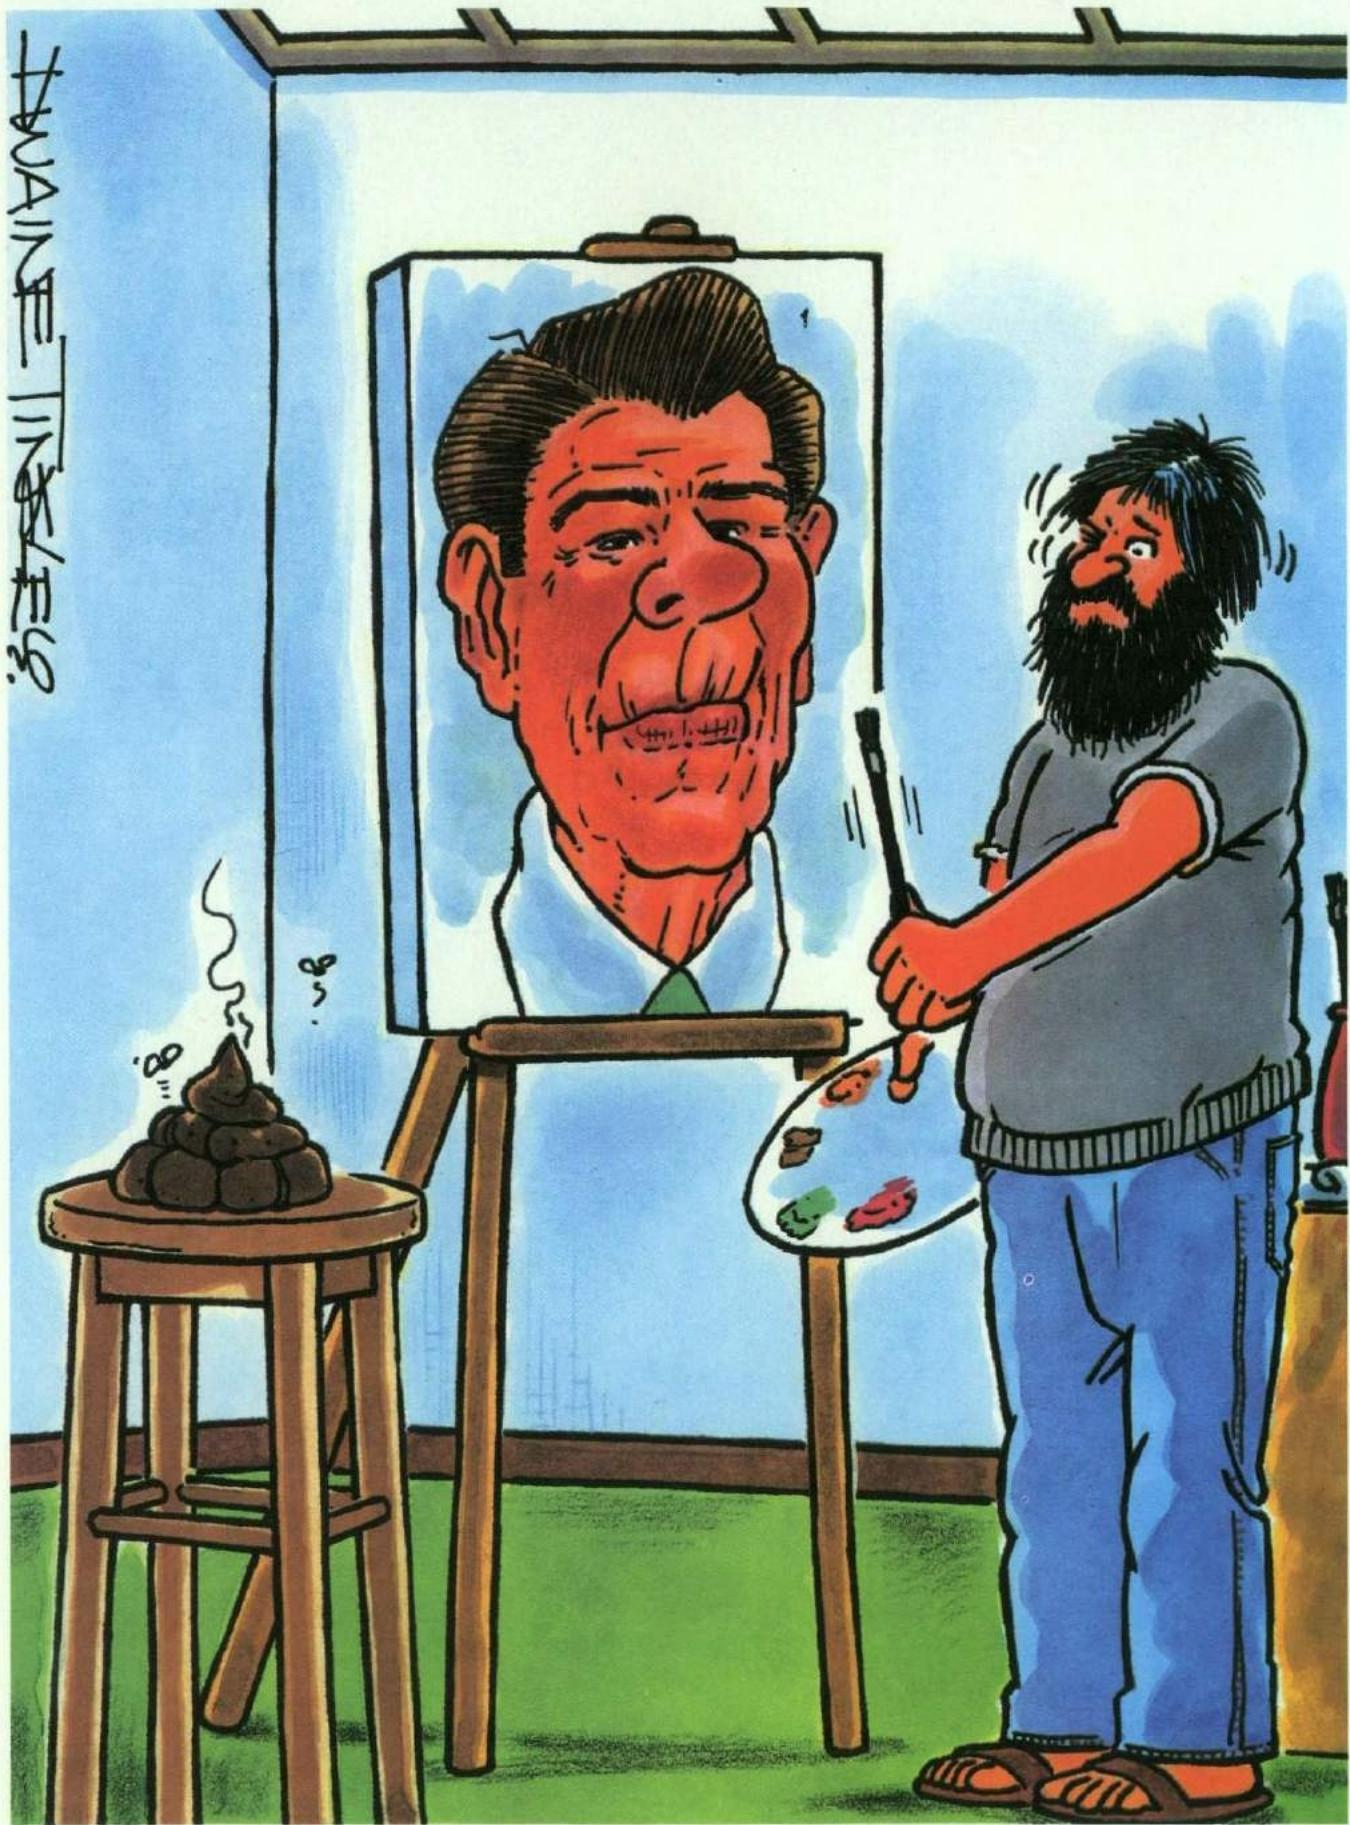

Though a spokes-squack from Women Against Pornography claims that her organization doesn't single out B&D for special negative attention—believing all pornography to be a violent affront against women—her contention that gay all-male bondage books also subjugate women indicates her fanaticism, which plays into the pocket of reactionary, anti-

SIZZLE & SWEAT

Normally, after a vigorous workout, a stay in the sauna prevents stiffness, but when Ted and Carol find themselves in the coed cooker, he develops an aching joint. She does what she can to cool the hot rocks of the sweatbox, and pretty soon the puffing pair could heat the facility with their own sexual power. Supersensitive temperature-teased skin nerves delight in every steamy exploration, until the two soak through with release. Hey, doesn't physical fitness make you feel good?

With the AIDS panic, B&D is seen as a safe-sex alternative to monogamy or abstinence.

fetish conservatives. Of course, the only thing more useless than a reactionary, anti-fetish conservative in any struggle for unhampered personal expression is a liberal.

"A lot of so-called liberal organizations have been silent about the censorship issue on every level," points out the ACLU's Barry Lynn. "I wouldn't expect them to leap into it at this point."

Lynn goes on to say that the First Amendment works for everybody and every issue, or it doesn't work at all. People should be outraged that subtle government pressures—not actual laws—are causing certain materials to be removed from the shelves.

Any B&D businessperson who gets snared into court proceedings will be hard-pressed to think of government pressures as subtle. With the federal agencies forum-shopping (setting up and entrapping porn peddlers in righteously moralistic states and counties), lawyer fees will quickly become the prime operating cost of any hapless seller who falls into the clutches of organized injustice. Smutmongers are sure bets to lose in the initial local trial. Though most cases would very likely be overturned on appeal, most B&D vendors aren't very lucrative, and prosecuting pariahs count on the probability that the little guys will just back down.

Because obscenity laws and smut statutes are arbitrary and randomly enforced—even the new Supreme Court ruling fails to precisely define obscenity—the possibility of being run through the no-win legal wringer is terror-striking. A dealer cannot find out until he actually gets prosecuted what the law really means. With forum-shopping once again coming into play, vague and imprecise legal precedents and oddly worded local statutes are in for some outrageous interpretations.

Purveyors of tie-up thrills are taking measures to protect themselves from being sucked into judicial hell. A basic precaution is to send materials only to long-time customers; another is to be absolutely certain all performers are of legal age. Tapes are being edited to eliminate soundtracks, with the screaming and grunts of pleasure-pain replaced by music that is truly painful. Producers have begun wrapping plots around the rope scenes, with scenarios reminiscent of shitty prime-time detective shows. Wilton Place, of Fetish Times and the specialty outfit Platinum Press, has gone so far as to sit down with the California attorney general and two FBI agents.

"He pointed to a couple of pictures and said, 'This is not what we like to see,'" reports Place. "The definitive term is torture, and that it appears to be unwilling; that's where you would draw the line." If the girl is in a subjugated pose, as in a rape, there is cause for concern. Activities that are definitely dangerous, in the legal sense, to produce include any heavy S&M, whip marks (though lipsticked welts may be acceptable in some cases), obvious bruising, drawing blood, piercing, branding or any kind of penetration with anything. In short, anything the discerning pervert would like to see beyond mild B&D is verboten.

Bondage as a fetish or enhancement to otherwise standard fucking is rapidly gaining in popularity. With the AIDS panic, B&D is seen as a safe-sex alternative to monogamy or abstinence. Mail-order sales of bondage magazines, films and implements are up, due in part to lack of retail availability. People want more, not less. How long will they have to wait for the porn-proscribing pendulum to swing back, or will it?

There is also a question of whether the selection of leather- and rope-bound depictions has dwindled due to Meese Commission pressures or, after the fashion of oil sheiks in the 1970s, is a B&D cartel attempting to foist a manufactured shortage upon an unwary public to bolster lagging sales and raise prices? Furthermore, of any prurient products that have been eliminated from the market, how many actually succumbed to bad business practices, rampant greed and repercussions against organized-crime influences?

Store personnel at Circus of Books in West Hollywood, California, claim their selection of bondage-and-discipline materials is as good as it's ever been, and getting better all the time. Down the street a few blocks, Casanova's Adult World also boasts a full stock of nymphs in stocks and other porn of that ilk.

The Circus people do acknowledge that a portion of their material comes from Ohio, and that if sources are actually drying up there, the effect could be seen in months to come.

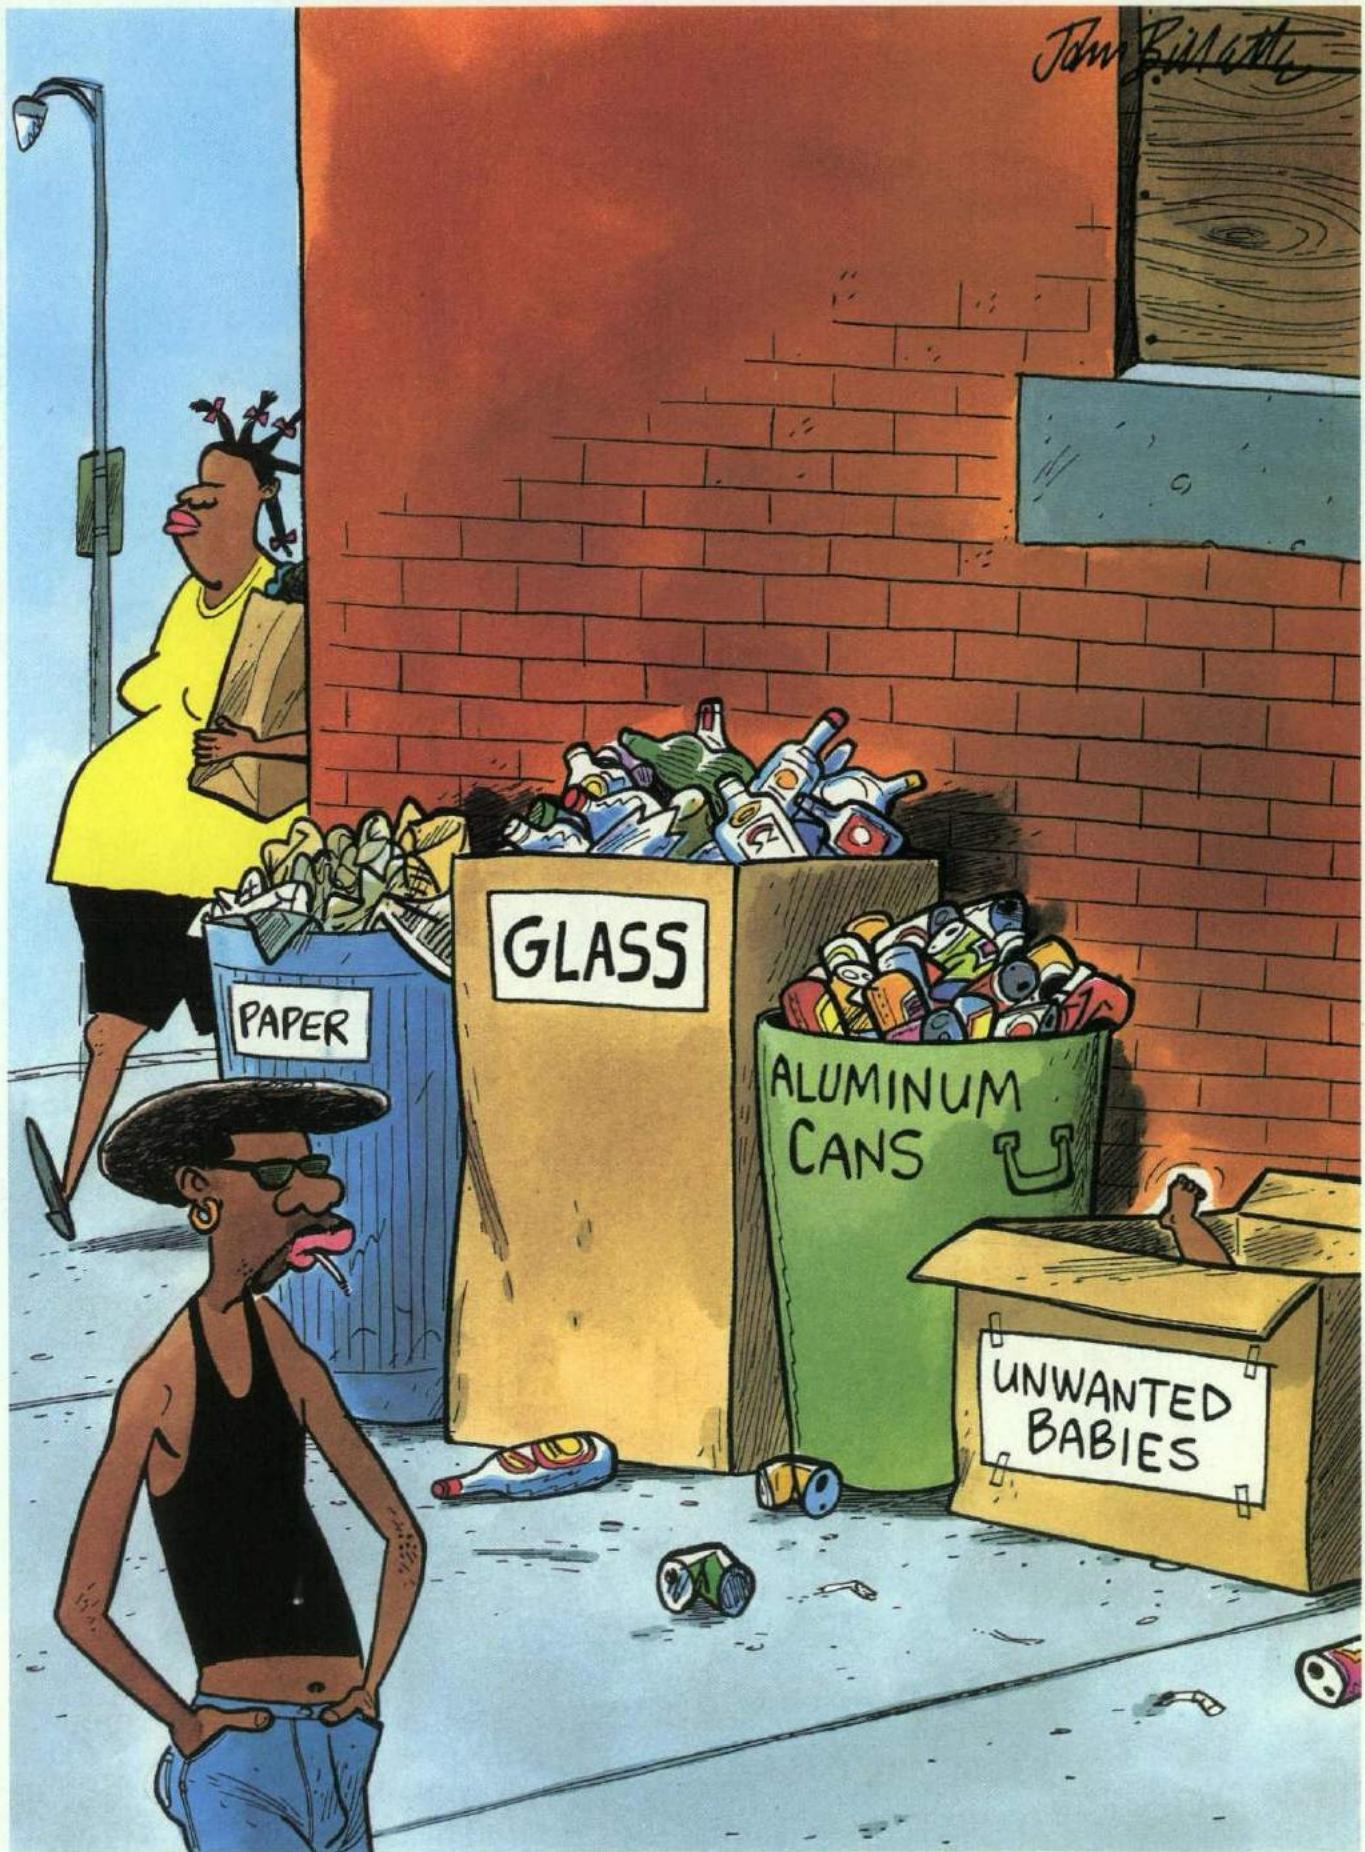

Sources may be drying up, but there is speculation that little of this dessication is the result of outside forces, being primarily the fault of the distribution/manufacturer network itself.

"A lot of them should be eliminated

The leprechaun said, "Oh, come on, you've got to have at least one midget nun."

"I'm sorry, little man," she told him, "but I'm afraid we don't."

The leprechaun started to get worked up and begged her. "Please," he said, "you've got to tell me that you have at least one midget nun!"

Finally his friend, the other leprechaun, elbowed him in the ribs and said, "You see, Jamie, I told you it was a penguin you screwed."

Realizing he'd better relieve his bladder before things got too hot, Mason went into the bushes to take a leak.

"Jesus fucking Christ!" roared an irate voice from the bushes. "Who do you think you're pissing on?!"

"Come on, man, watch your language!" said Mason. "There's a lady present."

The priest was miraculously thrown from the plane. As he looked back at the wreckage, he saw the old rabbi pick himself up and make the sign of the cross. The priest ran up to him, saying, "Oh, thank heavens I got to talk to you in time. As we were going down, you saw that what I was saying was right, and you decided to convert!"

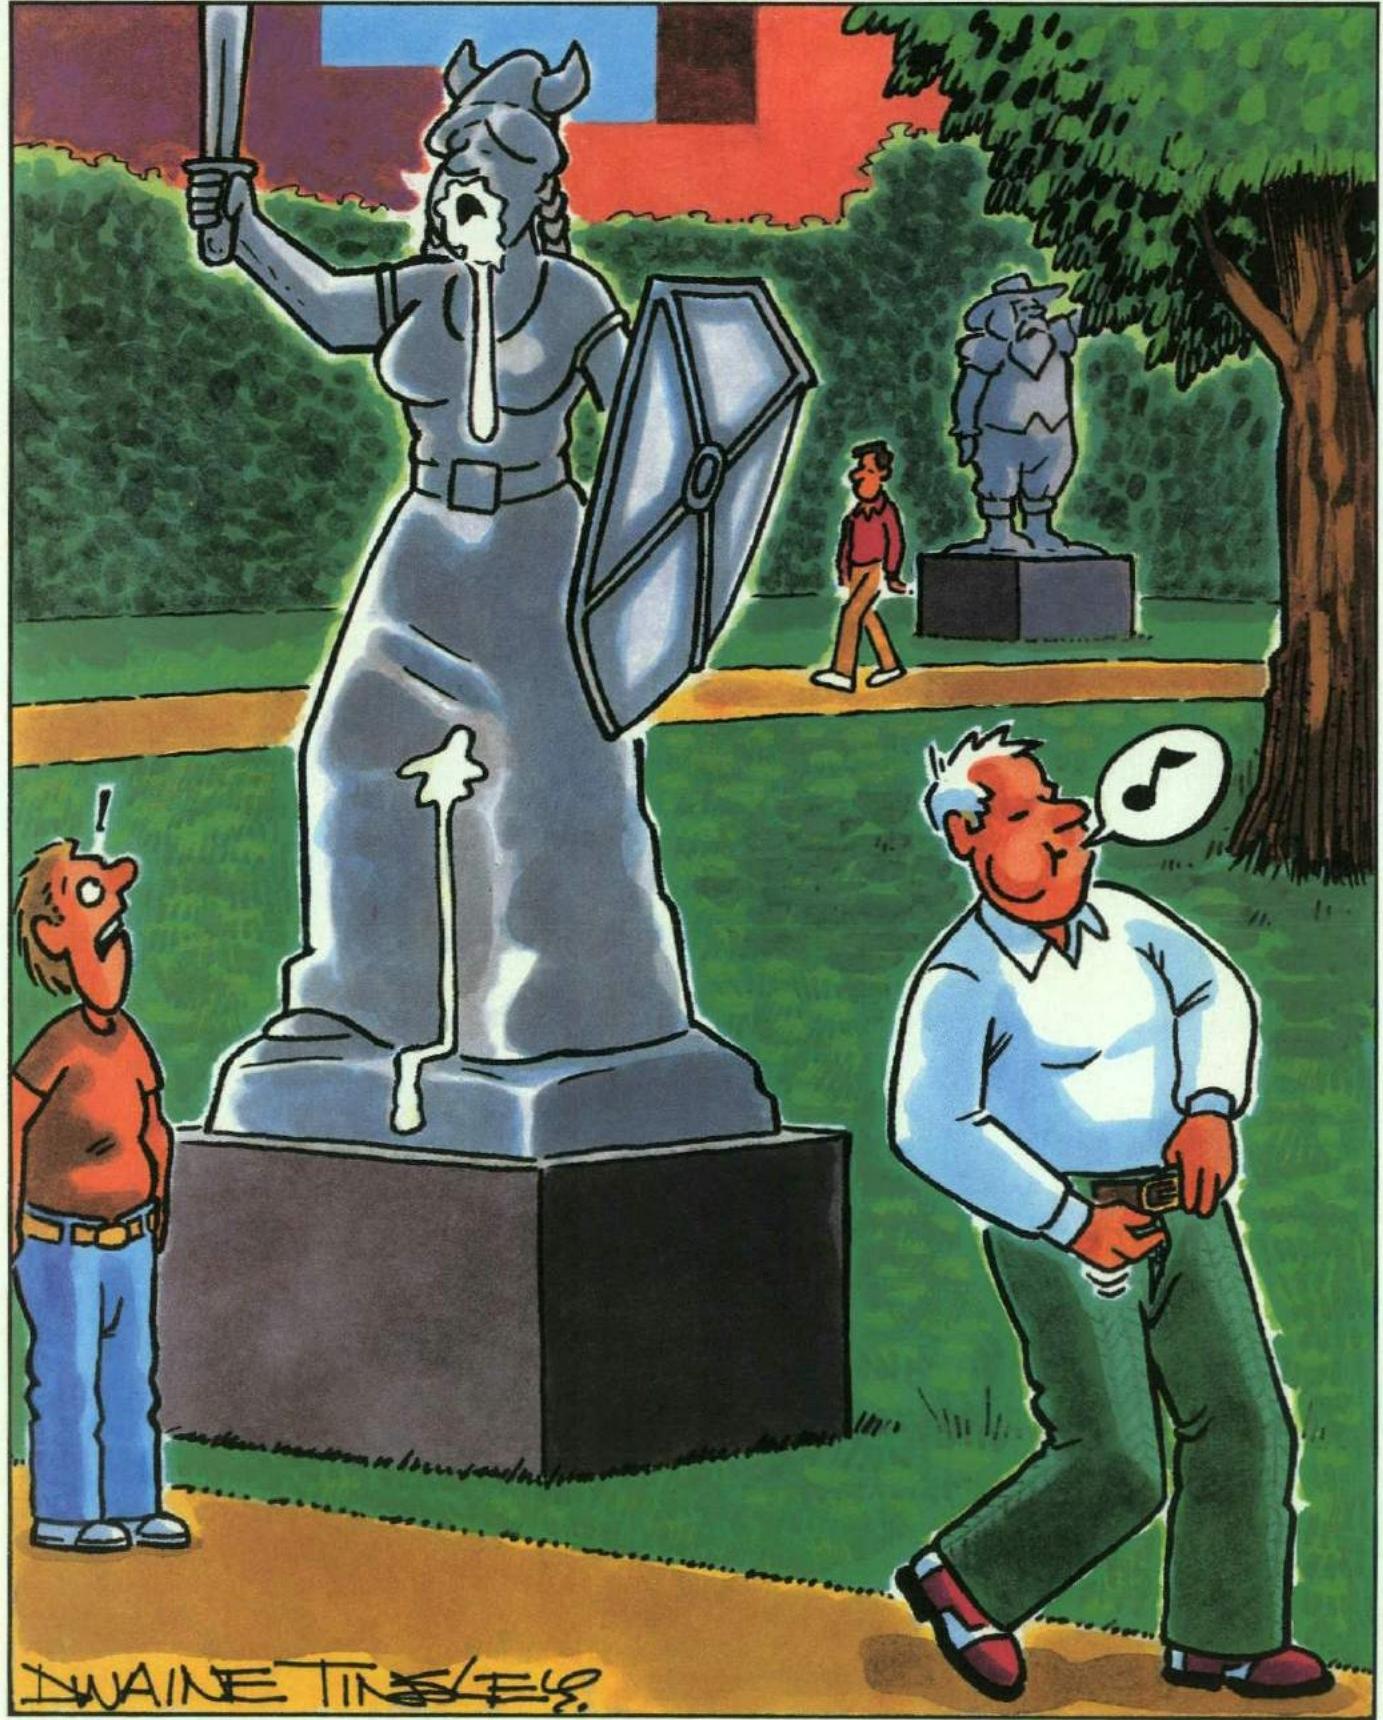

"Vat are you talking about?" asked the old rabbi.

The three loggers stopped at the base of Jack's Pass on the Skyhomish Loop. It was 5:00 p.m. They intended to have a vigilante party before beginning their official psycho hunt. Taking out two cases of iced Rainier and three fifths of Jim Beam, they threw the trailer doors open, shouting for the woman waiting in the cab to return. Braggadociously, the men laid out their weapons: a .45, a double-barreled shotgun, 25 feet of tough rope, two lead pipes, an iron mask and chestplate.

keying on truckers. Under the light of a full moon, he waited on logging roads for isolated semis to venture into his trap. The trap consisted of a 100-pound rock that was dropped from an overpass. As the speeding vehicle approached the overpass, the killer would release the rock, shattering the front windshield. The results were either a crushing decapitation or a death-dealing concussion.

Their plan was simple. Using the semi as a decoy, one of the men, wearing the protective mask and chestplate, would drive, while the others hid in the trailer. When, and if, the psycho struck, the men in the trailer would be there.

The loggers brought along a young woman. She was a local nympho who got her kicks from sex and dangerous mountain climbing. Since she loved danger and knew each of the loggers intimately, she convinced them, with the promise of sexual favors, to take her on the manhunt.

"It's going to be a cinch," said one of the men, fingering the mask. "The moon is full, and it's killing weather."

As the liquor began to disappear, the men handed the woman a half-fifth of Beam. Hitting her alcohol-tolerance level, she slipped her coat off and began stripping. She had an impeccable physique. Her body, firm from mountain climbing and tanned from nude sunbathing, had the form of a Greek goddess. Beautiful, dark-nippled breasts, and a heart-shaped mound of black pubic hair added to her perfectly proportioned body. Sitting on the trailer's wheel well, she spread her legs and worked two index fingers into her twat. She turned to the men and instructed one of the trio to disrobe and stand on the wheel well. She asked another to sit naked in front of her. To the third, she said, "Drop your pants and get ready to fuck me in the ass." Standing by the loggers on the wheel well, she took a cock in each hand and squeezed. When they were erect, she mounted the sitting man's organ.

Reaching into her coat pocket, she pulled out a jar of Vaseline and handed it to the man behind her. "Put some on my ass," she directed, "then slide your big cock in my rosebud, baby."

The man, whacking at her open cheeks with his pole, was amazed at how easily he slid into her anus. With two of the men inside her, she closed her mouth around the cock of the third logger. Sexually hooked-up three ways, the four people tried moving in unity. It didn't work. Finally, with passion rising, two of the men pulled her onto the ground. One entered her ass, the other her mouth, while the third man watched. The nympho now found herself caught in a human vice, impaled, like a pig on a spit, between two rods. The woman felt as if both cocks were about to meet in her stomach. Poking and choking, the two men rocked in time. In simultaneous rhythm, they both hit the jism button, emptying their bloated balls. The nympho, unprepared for the sperm, choked. Taking in a deep breath, she mistakenly sucked hot cum through her sinuses and shot it out her nose. With the snotlike substance dripping down her face, the spent men dropped her to the ground.

There she was greeted by the unfired cock of the last logger. Not showing any mercy, he leglocked her head and slapped the woman's face with his dick. As she tried to catch her breath, he shoved his hard piece into her cum-drenched mouth. In a session of deep dives, he instantly exploded, sending more hot balls of sperm into her protesting mouth. This caused her to retch up a milky substance onto the man's balls. Disgusted, the logger, using his open palm, knocked her head away.

The pungent odor of dogs, combined with that of oily kerosene, hung like a cloud in the killer's cabin. In the center of one wall hung a black velvet painting. Within the painting was a red outline of Christ. A Bible sat below the picture.

The rundown cabin was hidden like a cave in the Columbia Glacier section of the Snoqualmie wilderness. This was the killer's country. Growing up, the killer had explored the area with seasoned mountain men. With his overwhelming love of nature, God and the wilderness, it was no surprise to his parents or friends when he decided to become a forest ranger. At age 25, he completed the vigorous training and requirements of the U.S. Forestry Service, and was expected to move up fast in the ranks. That was until the accident.

It was the summer of '81, and the man had been assigned to the fire lookout station in the Snoqualmie National Forest. A mild thunderstorm began in the west, and as it moved east, it began to increase in velocity. When the storm was upon him, a crenulated bolt of lightning struck. A fire ignited quickly, and the man's face and upper body were badly burned before he was able to attempt an escape. Managing to reach the exit ladder, he began his descent when the ladder, which had been badly singed by the fire, gave way, plunging him 40 feet to the ground. The result of the fall was a crushing blow to his forehead that eventually required the insertion of a metal plate. Skin grafts to restore his distorted features did little good and, after talking to several psychiatrists, the man and his canine companions wandered off into the wilderness. It was at this time he began his savage onslaught against mankind.

The pickup punched its way through a low ground fog. The driver was having a hard time concentrating on the road. His shapely, blond traveling companion had just shed her sweater and was fondling one of her pink-nippled breasts. Licking her lips, she stared at him with startling green eyes, reaching for the zipper holding back his semi-erection.

"Christ, Clovis," exclaimed the man, "can't you wait?"

Not paying any attention to his comment, she slid the front of his pants down, uttering a delighted squeal as his cock popped out against the steering wheel. The man, knowing there would be no stopping her, spied a wide spot in the road and pulled over.

"Okay, bitch," he said, jerking her head off his cock. "You asked for it."

With a stinging blow from his foot, he kicked the passenger door open and pushed the woman's head outside. Crawling across the seat, he put his feet on the truck's running board and held her head between his legs. The man then mounted her face like a pussy. A gurgle of joy escaped from her lips when he shoved his dick into her cavernous mouth.

Placing both hands on the back of her head, he jammed all ten red inches past her vocal cords, tripping her gag reflexes. The woman, gagging from asphyxiation, submitted to his power and retracted both of her hands. He pounded his hot piece into her gaping jaws until his balls boiled with cum. Moaning, he sprayed wet jets of jism into her gurgling throat. Gloating at his success, he pulled his saliva-coated dick from the gasping woman's mouth and rolled her over.

Standing on the train trestle overpass, the huge man saw the lights of the pickup go off. He knew instantly these people were his and God's. Straining his eyes and ears, he waited like a cat about to attack. The man's forehead was big and square, like an oversized brick. That, combined with a cubical jaw and massive facial scars, gave the man a Frankensteinish appearance. The man's biceps were the thickness of a normal man's thighs, and his cast-iron belly fit well with his 300-pound bulk. His dead eyes were completely void of spirit.

The cowboy, wiping his dick off on the woman's leg, stepped out of the truck. Walking to the front of the vehicle, he pulled his pants up and stretched.

Through the illumination of a full moon, he could barely make out a wooden bridge. From where he was, the bridge looked like a sick, black creature waiting to collapse. Shivering at the sight before him, he slid into the pickup and started down the logging road.

The killer lifted the 100-pound rock above his head. When the truck was a few feet from the trestle, he hurled the projectile.

The cowboy heard the windshield shatter, then felt the crushing stone tear into his upper torso and face. The impact knocked an eye from his head onto the lap of the woman. With a gutteral scream of terror, she recognized the object before blacking out. The driverless truck swerved, hit an embankment and rolled over on its side.

The big man ran to the front of the truck, peering through the jagged windshield. Inside, he saw a half-naked woman sprawled next to the body of a man. A gash in the man's temple spewed blood across the woman's breast, and his mutilated nose oozed crimson onto the dash of the vehicle. It was obvious to the killer the man was dead, but the woman was still moving.

Aroused by the blood, he pulled her from the truck and onto a patch of ground under a pine tree. Plopping his face between her breasts, he licked greedily at the sticky red substance. Caught up in a feeding frenzy of blood lust, the killer ripped at the woman's nipples. The woman reacted to the excruciating pain by moaning and partially opening her eyes. Through blurred vision, she saw a nightmare of a man kneeling in front of her. As the moonlight sliced through the fog, she recognized the glint of a finely-honed straight razor.

MAKIN' NASHVILLE COUNTRY AGAIN

Young Turks like Steve Earle, Dwight Yoakam and Randy Travis are bringing country music back to its down-home roots with their sad songs, simple ballads and good old honky-tonkin'.

Steve Earle knows all about being a small-town upstart. Growing up in Schertz, Texas, a town 17 miles northeast of San Antonio, Earle enjoyed a metabolism a speed freak would kill for.

Small towns and natural-born speed freaks don't mix, especially when the fast-moving kid is uppity and long-haired, as Earle was. For fun, local rednecks used to beat him up.

"Three or four rednecks would jump out of a pickup truck and beat the hell out of me, cut my hair with a pocketknife and steal my boots," Earle says. "My father finally told me I'd have to learn to fight, because boots cost $60."

"So I bought a sawed-off shotgun. They came piling out of that truck one day, I let off both barrels, and it was assholes and elbows back in the truck. They never messed with me again."

Now, Steve Earle is a big-city upstart. Like Dwight Yoakam and Randy Travis, country music's other Young Turks, Earle has set Nashville on its ear. And that is a good thing.

Since the late 1970s, urban-cowboy schlock, revamped pop oldies and synthesizer-laced dance records—seemingly everything but honest country music—have oozed out of Nashville. But in the past two years

MAKING NASHVILLE COUNTRY AGAIN

Travis, Yoakam and Earle have pulled country music out of the rut it has languished in for ten years.

Earle, Yoakam and Travis have done much to recover country's integrity.

Earle's stripped-down country-rock songs tell vivid stories of desolate small towns and broken blue-collar dreams. Yoakam, a self-described hillbilly, twangs out honky-tonk songs and anti-Nashville invective like a modern-day Hank Williams. Travis, a classic country singer in the George Jones/Merle Haggard school, excels in simple, emotion-provoking ballads.

Travis, Yoakam and Earle play different kinds of country music, but they have something in common: Together, they have pulled country music out of the rut it has languished in for most of the past ten years.

"It reminds me of what we were doing in '75, with the Outlaw movement," says Tompall Glaser, who with Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings and Jessi Colter ignited an earlier explosion in country music with the album Wanted: The Outlaws. "Every ten years it happens. They've brought the music back to its basic moods and away from high-glitz arrangements. People need songs you don't have to be a musical genius or in heat to appreciate."

Bruce Springsteen doesn't walk into a record store every day. When he does, he takes his life in his hands. Fans mob him, begging autographs and other blessings.

In the spring of 1986, Springsteen voluntarily suffered such an ordeal when he ventured into a record store in Westwood, California. What lured the Boss into the clutches of the autograph hounds? He wanted to buy a copy of Steve Earle's Guitar Town album.

Earle's music, like Springsteen's, often takes the form of blue-collar blues. With Springsteen comparisons ready, critics rushed to praise Earle's working-class lyrics and ballsy country-rock sound when Guitar Town came out in early 1986. In one of the album's songs, the hit "Someday," Earle paints a musical portrait of a small-town upstart—a guy not unlike Earle—who dreams of a better life elsewhere.

Earle's vivid lyrics and his rock-influenced music appeal to country singer Razzy Bailey, a pioneer himself. After scoring a string of number-one hits in the early 1980s, Bailey opened country-radio playlists to soul with his covers of "Midnight Hour" and "Knock on Wood."

"He's doing a very progressive, different type of country," Bailey says of Earle. "It's an innovative style, rather than a revamp of an old style, like Randy Travis. Steve Earle has opened a lot of doors, like Waylon and Willie did back in 1975."

Music infected Earle when, at age 12, he learned his first rock-guitar licks. By the time he reached his early teens, he was a chronic runaway. But Earle wasn't running away from home so much as he was running to his future: music.

In Houston on one of his running-away jags, Earle met Townes Van Zandt, a songwriter best known for the Willie Nelson-Merle Haggard hit "Pancho and Lefty." Earle learned the basics of songwriting and, apparently, drinking from Van Zandt. "We'd get together and get blitzed and pass around the guitar," Van Zandt says. "There'd be a jug of wine in the middle of the table, guitars going around the room."

Earle didn't want to learn every lesson Van Zandt had to teach, however. "You can really learn a lot from Townes," says Earle. "But you've got to stay away from the vodka and grape Nehi."

Leaving his first wife behind (he has since been in and out of two other marriages), 19-year-old Earle hitchhiked to Nashville in 1974. Through fellow Texan and songwriter Guy Clark, he got a job as a staff songwriter for one of Nashville's song-publishing companies. To some songwriters, that job and its sure money would have been a dream-come-true. Not to Steve Earle.

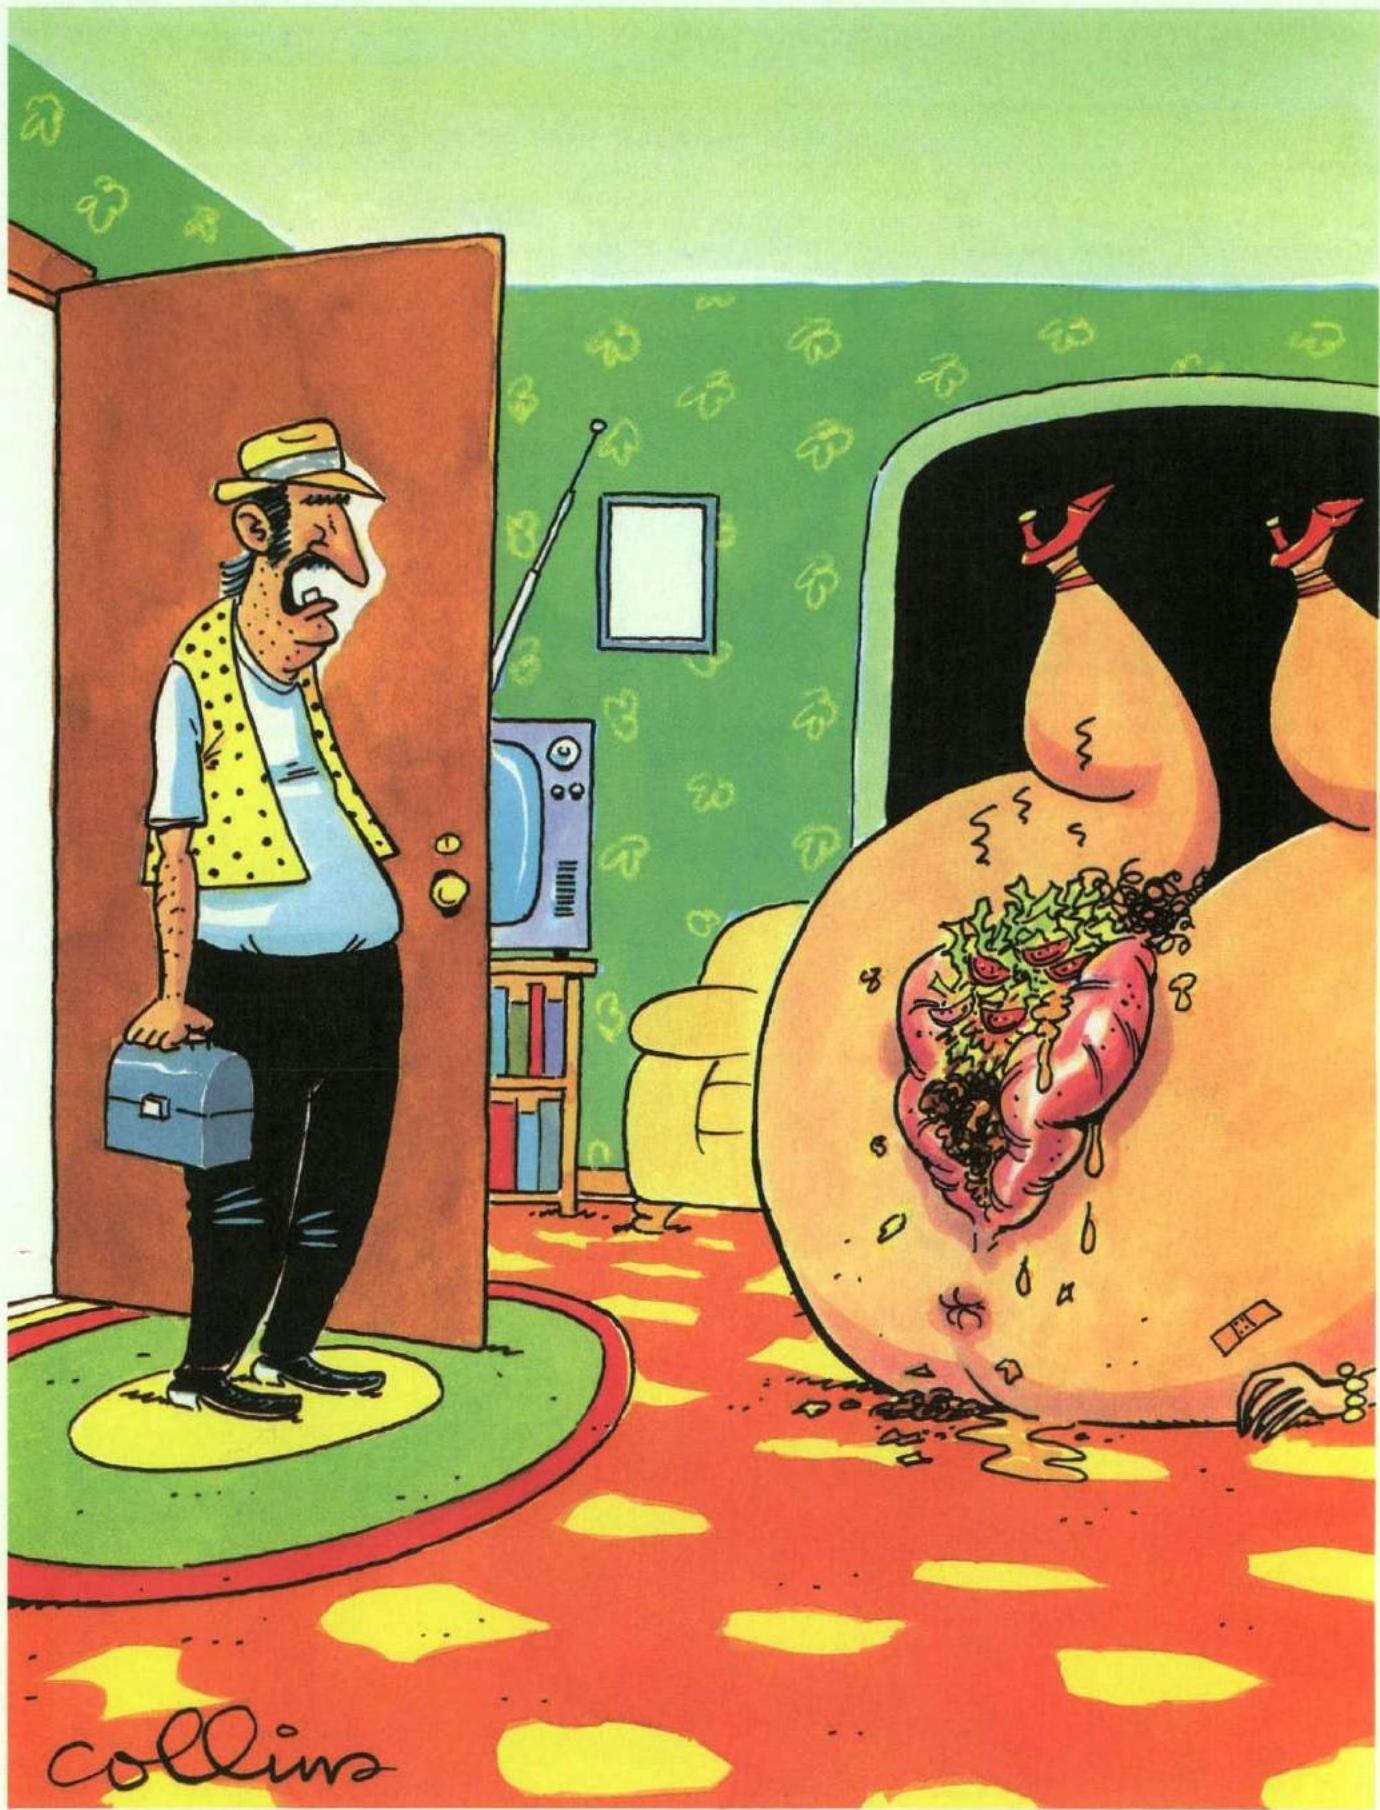

"As a songwriter, I was always told to keep everything upbeat and positive. Well, life's not always upbeat and positive. If I'm really depressed, and I feel I've earned the right to be depressed, nothing ticks me off more than somebody singing upbeat and positive."

Earle drank away the upbeat-and-positive-songwriting blues during an alcoholic interlude in Mexico, where he says he earned his Master's degree in tequila. By the early 1980s, though, he was back playing Nashville's clubs with a rockabilly trio, Steve Earle & the Dukes. It was a good time to play rockabilly. With the Stray Cats tearing up the pop charts, Nashville's record executives were eager to get their slice of the rockabilly pie. They wanted a country rockabilly act, and they found that act in Steve Earle.

Earle signed with Epic Records. In 1983 his first single, "Nothin' But You," shipped to country-radio stations—and died on arrival. "Steve Earle put out four singles [on Epic], and two of them didn't even chart," says John Lomax III, who was then Earle's manager. "Of the two that charted, I think the highest he got

"Fuckin' refugees!"

"Shit! Tacos again tonight?"

MAKING NASHVILLE COUNTRY AGAIN

Yoakam says Nashville has traded its country birthright for a mess of pop-music potage.

was 69. What an insult."

Even with his records getting little or no radio airplay, Earle gamely toured the country dance halls. At one point, his tour flyer promised, "Free admission to all left-handed nymphomaniacs."

When it became clear Earle couldn't duplicate the Stray Cats' success—even with a hand from nymphomaniacs—Epic dropped him. "I lost my confidence," Earle recalls. "I thought I'd lost my edge."

Earle had to rethink his music. He quit playing rockabilly, recognizing it for a fad, and worked hard to improve his songwriting.

He got a break. Even after his nonhits with Epic, another label, MCA, remained interested in Earle. Shortly after Epic gave him the boot, he signed with MCA.

Earle started writing songs for his MCA album after breaking up with his then-wife. "I guess it was sort of an early mid-life crisis," he says. "I wasn't living anywhere. Rent wasn't something I wanted to spend money on."

When Guitar Town came out in 1986, it seduced critics, disc jockeys and record buyers. After earning less than $7,000 per year for most of his professional career, Steve Earle found himself in the chips. It shows. He now sports a rubbery gut, and a thick neck that threatens to sprout a double chin.

Steve Earle may be eating better, but he hasn't changed much otherwise. Sure, he owns a $900 tuxedo now. But he wears it only to Nashville's black-tie music-awards ceremonies. After one of those affairs, he passed out—in his new tuxedo—on a friend's kitchen floor.

At any rate, Earle's wordplay hasn't suffered. One of his Nashville friends has started a collection of "Earle-isms." Here's what Earle says about putting on weight: "The only exercise I get is when I cough." After a hard night on the town: "I can't take these sunglasses off, or I'd bleed to death." On a nameless acquaintance: "He's about as exciting as an autistic prick."

Obviously, Steve Earle delights in speaking his mind. But when it comes to mouthing off, he can't compete with Dwight Yoakam. In a September 1986 interview in the British pop magazine New

Musical Express, Yoakam lambasted Rick Blackburn, the head of CBS Records in Nashville, for dropping Johnny Cash from the label.

"[Blackburn] just let Johnny Cash go because he doesn't sell enough records," said Yoakam. "What kind of decency is that? The man's been there 30 fuckin' years makin' them money. He paid for the son of a bitch's office that the prick sits in and lets him leave the label. He built the building, man."

That tirade capped a year in which Yoakam used many of his interviews to castigate Nashville's country-music establishment. "They pillaged the music just like the corporations pillaged the coal mines," he told a reporter for United Press International.

For Yoakam, country music reached its zenith with Hank Williams in the 1950s and, later, with Buck Owens in the 1960s. Since then, he says, Nashville has traded its country birthright for a mess of pop-music pottage.

"You know, they lost it, man. I mean, look at those old fuckin' George Jones album covers, right? Goddamn! With that flattop. And the bolero jackets. I mean, that son of a bitch was cool and didn't even know it."

Yoakam thinks less highly of Nashville's current crop. "When I first saw Alabama, I thought, Jesus! They brought these guys from a Ramada Inn somewhere."

Middle-of-the-road crooners who pawn themselves off as country singers also incur Yoakam's wrath. "Lee Greenwood has a right to be Lee Greenwood, but it ain't Goddamn country music. And that's what pisses me off, 'cause they insult what I'm doing by calling what that son of a bitch does 'country music.'"

Yoakam was born in Pikesville, Kentucky, on October 23, 1956. His family moved north to Columbus, Ohio, but the Yoakams never lost touch with their country roots, although those roots sometimes proved embarrassing.

"My mother's a little embarrassed to admit she likes to eat squirrel brains," claims Yoakam. "But back home it's a real delicacy. You put the head in a pot of boiling water and then crack it open with a spoon."

The family often spent weekends in Kentucky with Dwight's grandparents. Through them, and especially through his coal-miner grandfather, Luther Tibbs, Yoakam learned to take pride in his hillbilly origins. Today, he crows about his hillbilly heritage, saying it makes him the real thing in an era of Lee Greenwood-style country singers.

"Just simple things like watching my grandfather slaughter a hog" set him apart, Yoakam says. Those experiences gave me a verbal palette to work with that has hues other people don't have."

"Who would have guessed that punks would be the ones to make hillbilly chic again?"

When he was about nine years old, Yoakam's parents pawned a shotgun to buy him a guitar. But Dwight didn't make an impression as a performer until his high-school years.

At 18, Yoakam went to Indianapolis to answer a newspaper ad offering a chance to make a record and get started in professional music. At an Indianapolis motel, the man who placed the ad told Dwight that for $500 he could make him a record.

Dwight didn't have $500, and his parents wouldn't lend it to him. So he borrowed the money from other relatives and friends. Optimistic Dwight sent the $500 to the man at the motel.

Yoakam never heard from him again.

"I'll tell you what that $500 incident did," he says. "It wiped all the romance of the music business out of my eyes—with sandpaper."

With the stardust out of his eyes, Yoakam came to Nashville in 1976 to audition for a job performing at Opryland, the candy-coated theme park adjoining the Grand Ole Opry. He was chosen as an alternate, but left Nashville anyway.

Yoakam says he visited Nashville several other times, auditioning and meeting with uniform rejection. He left town nursing a store of bitterness against Nashville that still shows.

"Nobody said I was too country for Nashville, but that was what I was. I found out . . . the folks down there have long been ashamed of their hillbilly roots. They seemed to have forgotten—or wanted to forget—where country came from."

Some, like John Lomax III, question Yoakam's Nashville stories. "I've never talked to [anyone] at a [record] label that ever heard a Dwight Yoakam tape," Lomax says. "I have yet to find one person in Nashville—and I've been here 13 years—that ever remembers seeing Dwight Yoakam's name on a marquee. He could have invented the entire story."

Anyway, Yoakam and his hillbilly music hit the big time in Los Angeles. When he played the Palomino club there in 1983, punk rockers seized on his music and made it fashionable.

"All the energy and purity had been taken out of traditional country music, and it took an extreme swing of the pendulum to bring it back," says Yoakam. "Who would have guessed, in 1978, that punks, of all people, would be the ones to make hillbilly chic again?"

With punks buying Yoakam's independent-label debut EP, the country establishment started to come around. Yoakam's record-buying punks proved irresistible to Warner Bros. Records, which duly signed him.

Yoakam's first two singles, a raunchy remake of Johnny Horton's 1956 hit "Honky-Tonk Man" and Yoakam's own "Guitars, Cadillacs," rode into the top five on Billboard's charts. But his third single, the barroom bawler "It Won't Hurt," didn't even crack the top 30—an ominous blip in Yoakam's career. In Nashville, some industry observers say "It Won't Hurt" died because of a backlash to Yoakam's attacks on the country establishment. "It remains to be seen if Dwight Yoakam will be long-lasting," says Razzy Bailey, who has seen other hot artists lose their fire.

In any event, Yoakam's Guitars, Cadillacs, Etc., Etc. album has sold more than 500,000 copies, an unheard of feat for a new country artist. Until Randy Travis came along, that is.

Of country's Young Turks, Randy Travis best fits the Nashville mold. He does not publicly insult record execs, as Dwight Yoakam does. In most interviews, Travis trots out his stock biography and little more.

Nor does Travis temper his country music with rock, as Steve Earle does. Travis just sings simple, traditional country music, as George Jones and others have done for decades.

But underneath the sterling music and pat answers lies an unsuspected side of Randy Travis. He was born Randy Traywick in Marshville, North Carolina, a town of some 2,000 people, the kind of town where everybody knows everybody.

Everybody knew Randy. And not for his singing. People were probably more familiar with his run-ins with police.

"I tried to outrun the police a couple of times," Travis recounts. "You know, it's hard to do. I tried it one time—it was a little Chevelle that my brother had. They clocked me at 135 miles per hour. I was 14 or 15 then, and really moving. I lost control, but luckily didn't turn over. It was just crazy."

It wasn't the first or last time Randy played road warrior. "You wreck a few cars, and you wonder how in the world you lived," he says. "I rolled a truck one time, me and two other guys. All three of us came out of it alive somehow."

Yes, Randy was a bit wild in his teen

NASHVILLE (continued from page 90)

"Storms of Life" sold more than a million copies, the first debut album by a country singer to do so.

years. He ran away from home every now and then. He got into drinking and smoking pot. But mostly he collected parking, speeding and drunk-driving tickets.

No wonder people didn't know Randy for his singing. But he had been singing songs by Hank Williams and Merle Haggard since he was eight years old. When Randy was 11, he and his older brother Ricky were playing at square dances, parties and VFW halls.

When Randy wasn't playing music or raising hell, he worked on the family farm, raising cows and horses. Between times, he went to school.

"I wasn't too good at school. I only got to the ninth grade."

A year or so after dropping out, Randy moved up the road to Charlotte and began making a name for himself at a club, Country City USA. When Randy won $100 in a talent contest, club manager Lib Hatcher hired him to play on weekends. Before long he was working weeknights too.

But Randy couldn't stop messing with the law. "It was breakin' and enterin', drinkin' and drivin', just trying to be mean, I guess . . . I'd been on probation several times—probably six or seven years actually. I thought I was probably going to go to prison this time."

And he might have gone to prison, if it hadn't been for Lib Hatcher. The judge released Randy into her custody. "The music and Lib helped me see the light and straighten up, you might say."

Together, Randy and Lib embarked on a classic wild-eyed dream: They planned to make Randy a country star. They became frequent visitors to Nashville, where Randy spent weekdays writing songs and recording demos. Come Friday morning, they'd hustle the 500 miles back to Charlotte, so Randy could perform weekend shows at Country City USA.

During one of those weekday trips to Nashville, Travis met Joe Stampley, a country singer going strong with number-one hits like "Soul Song," "Roll on Big Mama" and, with duet partner Moe Bandy, "Just Good Ol' Boys." Stampley produced two singles for Travis, "Dreamin'" and "She's My Woman," in the late 1970s. The singles did nothing on the charts, but Stampley recognized in Travis a singer solidly in the Merle Haggard/George Jones tradition.

"Randy Travis has kept it traditional country," Stampley says. "He's one of the few that's really country."

Hatcher sold her club in 1981, and the two dreamers moved to Nashville. She got a job managing the Nashville Palace, a club across the road from the Grand Ole Opry. Hatcher hired Randy, of course—as a dishwasher. Later, he earned a promotion to short-order cook. But on picker's nights, when the microphone and stage were open to all comers, Randy got up and sang.

As he performed more at the Palace, Randy acted on a longstanding grievance: his name. People called him "Tirewick" and "Treadway" and sometimes "Trailways" instead of Traywick; so Randy Traywick became Randy Ray.

One of those who saw Randy Ray at the Palace was Martha Sharp, an A&R executive at Warner Bros. Records. She signed him in February 1985, and changed his surname again, this time to Travis.

Randy Travis wasn't a priority act at Warner Bros.; so it was no surprise when his first single, "On the Other Hand," stalled at the bottom of the charts. Still, Warner Bros. gave him another swing. To the amazement of most on Nashville's Music Row, Travis's next single, "1982," became a top-ten hit in 1986. That success made him a priority at Warner Bros. But he kept his job in the Palace kitchen.

"I was a little scared to quit my other job," says Travis. "I wanted to be sure this was really happening."

Any remaining doubts were quieted when Warner Bros. rereleased "On the Other Hand." After stopping at 67 in its first incarnation, the song shot to number one its second time around.

Travis's Storms of Life album sold in numbers that stunned the music industry. It eventually crossed onto the pop charts, a supremely oddball feat for a die-hard country album. In its first year, it sold more than a million copies, the first debut album by a country singer to do so.

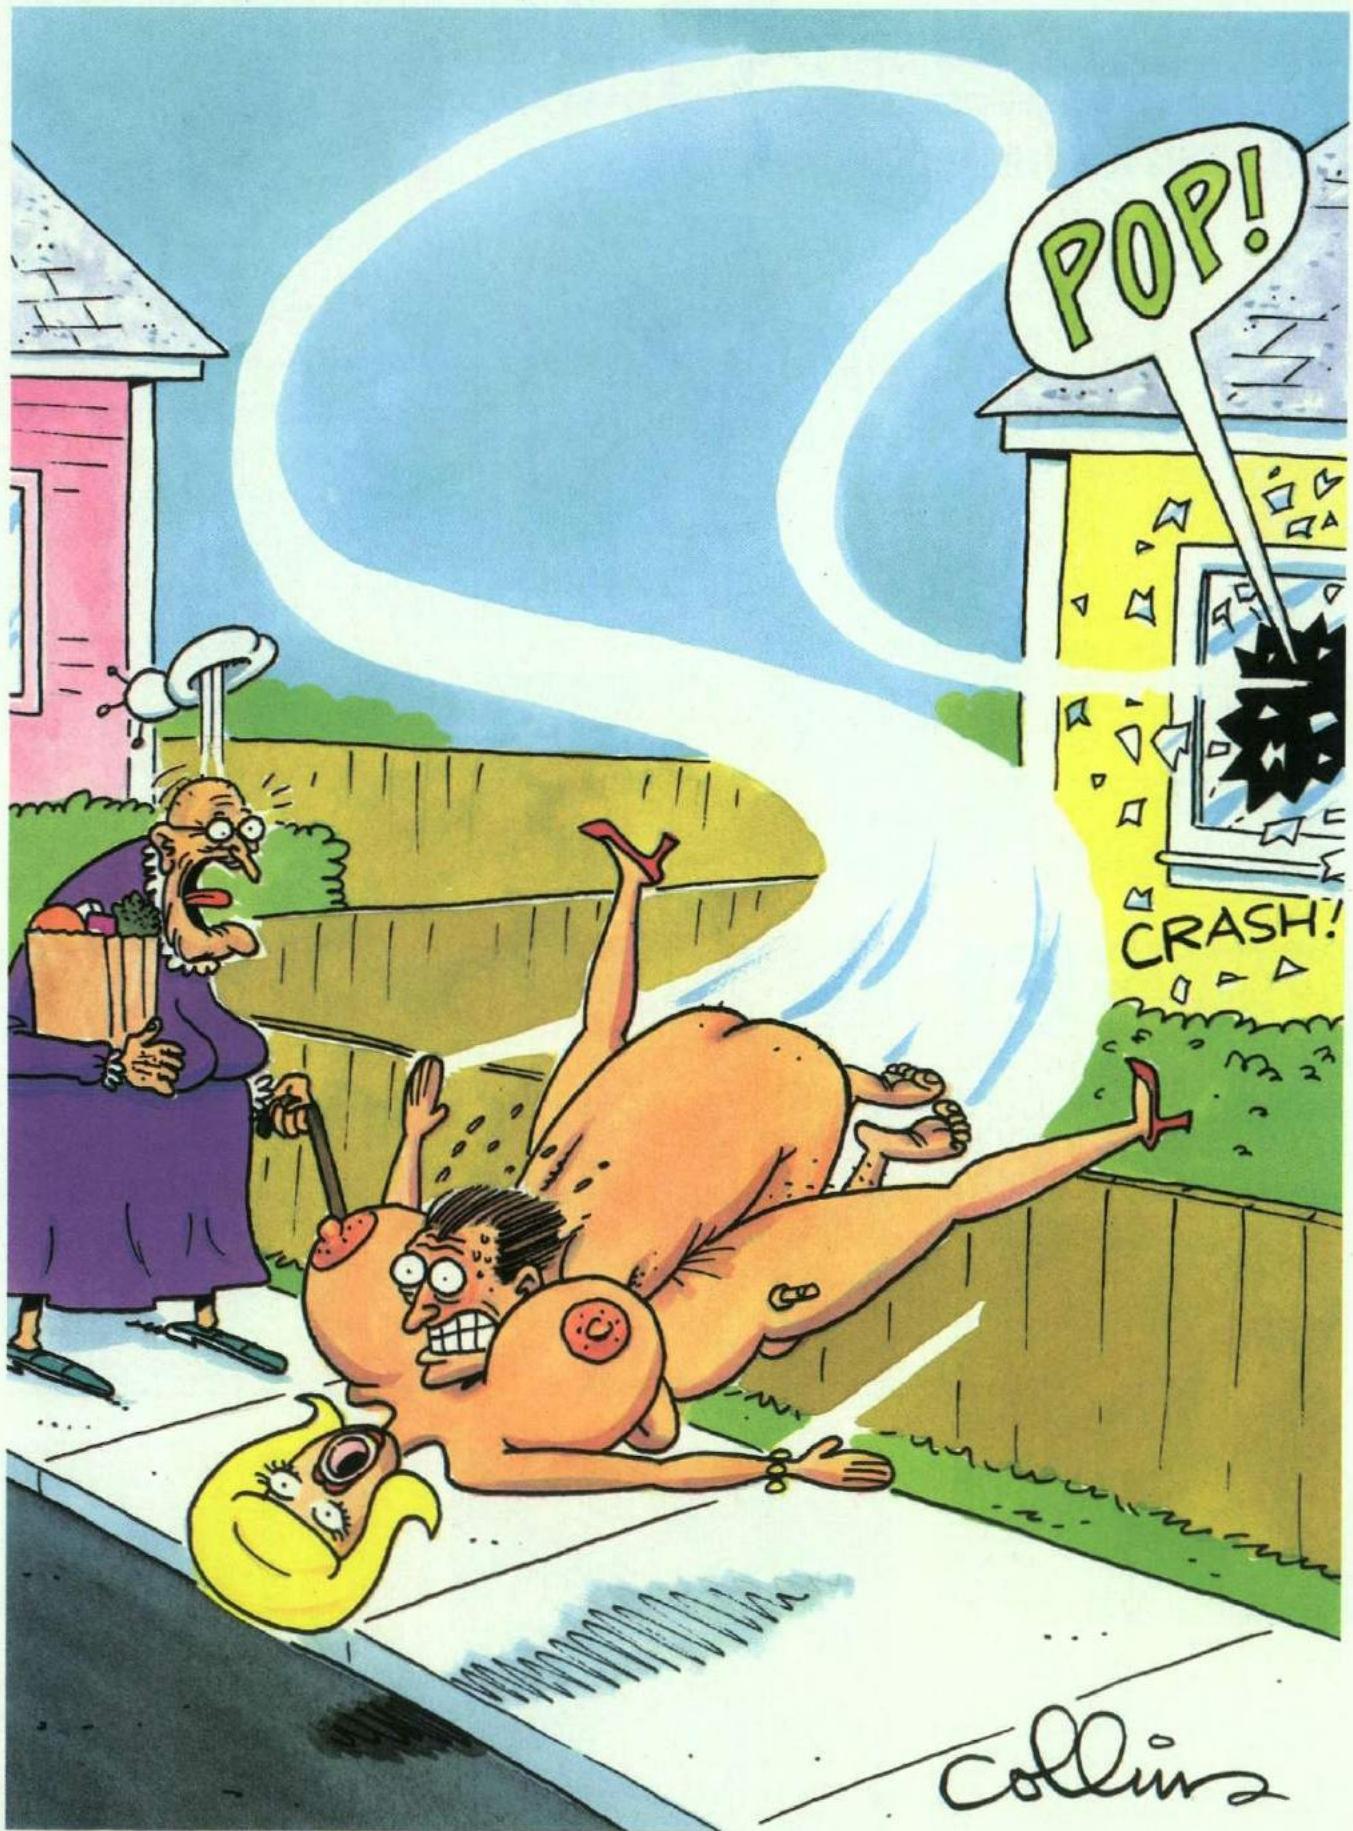

If all the success has gone to Travis's head, it certainly hasn't revived his drinking, doping, car-wrecking ways. In fact, success seems to have made him a little . . . well, boring.

Take, for instance, the time Travis had dinner with Johnny Russell, the beefy composer of the Buck Owens hit "Act Naturally."

"I went over to his house and had dinner one night, and he said, 'Where's your guitar? I'm going to show you how to write a song.'"

How exciting was Russell's collaboration with Travis? "He went into the den and turned on the ball game," says Travis. "And then he went to sleep on me."

TERROR IN THE CASCADES

whiskey. The combination of booze, sex and excitement wore them out. Unable to maneuver, they crashed in intoxicated heaps from the cab of the truck to the trailer. It was 2:00 a.m. before one of them finally came to.

Forgetting about his cotton mouth and headache, the logger scampered out of the International, heading for his friends in the trailer. At first he thought it was just the sound of his own footsteps but, when he heard the savage snarl, he realized it was someone else.

The shout to his friends was barely out of his throat before the straight razor stilled it. The razor slashed the face and neck of the logger. The additional blows were unnecessary, for the man, dead on his feet, had already given up life.

Barbaric growls and a thud on the trailer brought the other men out of their whiskey-induced sleep. Pushing the door open, one of the men, wearing the iron mask and carrying a lead pipe, retched at the sight of the butchered body of his friend. The killer, suddenly aware of another's presence, jumped up in rage, and charged the puking man.

Fortunately for the sick logger, his companion appeared at the mouth of the trailer, clutching the double-barreled shotgun. Firing both barrels, the man blew away a chunk of the charging psycho's hip and thigh. Like a cornered animal, the killer recoiled and lunged at the masked man. Brandishing the straight razor, the mountain man sliced through the air, slicing the tip of the masked man's little finger. The shotgun, its shells spent, was now used as a club.

In a mighty blow, the logger splintered the gun's wooden butt on the killer's forehead. Reeling backwards, the psycho fell unconscious by the body of his victim. Shaking, the man with the wasted rifle ran to the body of his friend. One look at the mutilated face was enough. Screaming in fury, he stood over the unconscious killer and sadistically kicked at him.

"You fucking ugly bastard," he belied. "You are about to die a slow, agonizing death."

Going back to the trailer, he hollered for the woman to throw him the rope.

The other man, who had taken the puke-filled mask off and was wrapping his finger, watched as his friend tied the hands and feet of the killer.

"Look," said the logger as he finished binding the psycho, "I want you to help me get this fucker into the trailer."

Tugging at the huge man, they pushed and shoved him into the trailer. Completing this, the men went back for the body of their companion. Reverently, they covered and carried him to the sleeper.

When the killer came to, he was hanging by his hands from a logging road overpass. Three hundred feet away, a semi with spotlights on revved up and moved toward him. The loggers, wanting to see the psycho suffer, had strung him up with the idea of using the semi as an instrument of death. They intended to charge the man until he was battered to death by the sides of the truck.

Through his sick, distorted mind, the psycho's grasp of the situation was not what the loggers expected. Instead of being alarmed by the oncoming truck, he visualized himself hanging on a cross. He felt the piercing nails in his hands and saw the torches of the Roman soldiers. He was in the body of Christ; a God-Man; indestructible.

Barreling at 50 miles per hour, the driver chuckled. "This first pass will scare the shit out of the bastard."

As the truck made its sweep, the psycho closed his eyes and saw a regiment of Roman horse-soldiers stampeding by. The horses hit his side, peeling the flesh from his ribs. The killer, knowing he was the only one who could save the Son of God, started swinging back and forth in preparation for the next onslaught.

The loggers, delighted that they had scraped the side of the man, turned the diesel around, and roared toward the dangling man at 60 miles per hour. Straining his muscular body, the man continued swinging. With each movement he arced higher and higher, until he was able to stretch eight feet in the air.

As the truck bore down, the loggers were shocked to see the man's body flying toward them. The shock turned into panic when they realized what was about to happen. In a powerful pole-vaulting arc, the killer hurled his bulk toward the front windshield. Using his body as a battering ram, he broke through the glass. The tremendous force of being hit by a 300-pound man snapped the neck of the driver. The other logger, unable to get to the steering wheel, sat in a state of shock as the semi plunged over a 40-foot embankment.

The crash snuffed out the remaining lives, and the killer, for the last time, opened his mouth. He was satisfied. The God-Man had been saved, and he was once again pure in spirit.

from the market, because they're total ripoff stuff," growls the owner of a nationwide chain of bondage parlors. He cites instances of slapping a high-gloss box on inferior tapes, shittier videos that are getting shorter and shorter, rehashing movies from years ago, releasing them with the models' names changed and the prices raised. "They take a shit movie that was an hour and a half, and make three shit movies out of it."

Although anyone in a business is in that business to make money, the brokers of bondage seem to be single-minded with a vengeance in that regard. One disgruntled former salesman for a New York firm has this to say: "They're a bunch of little Jewboy would-be Mafiosos. They act more Italian than Italians, wearing pointy shoes and pissing all over the toilet seat. They pay jackshit for the tapes; they cost them like ten bucks—royalties, overhead, sales commission, the whole works. They sell them for $25 to $39. The tapes are total pieces of shit."

Manufacturers have been known to cut corners to cut costs, ending up cutting their own throats. There's the apocryphal story of scene filmers who paid a 16-year-old girl $100 rather than spending $500 for an 18-year-old, thus saving $400, but being run out of business six months later in the resultant bust. This is typical of the mentality that wants to make $70,000 or $80,000 from a total investment of a couple of thousand shekels, for a production involving a Camcorder in a motel room and little else.

If it's so easy to make a mint, why aren't more people doing it? That same question appears to have occurred to organized-crime squads of law-enforcement agencies throughout the land. Officers seem to believe that the real money behind some of the B&D factories belongs to people who are "involved in other things" or "know a lot of people who are involved in other things." To such-minded detectives, it doesn't matter if a wise guy's into B&D or has a meatball restaurant. They're going to do anything they can to shut him down.

So what are the facts in the strapped-and-squirming issue? Only that any time you have suppression, repression and semi-clandestine expression, the truth becomes increasingly obscured.

Regardless of what actual events may have been, Stacy Brant of New York's Bizarre Video believes conditions are already well on their way back to normal, at least as normal as conditions can be in such a business. Bizarre's darkest hours were when the Meese Report was released and Traci Lords was discovered to have made several adult films while still legally a child. All sales dropped to zilch. Any current problems are just the tail end of the Meese business, which reverberated very slowly in some places.

Some insiders believe that the Iran-contragate arms scandal has diffused the thrust of the Meese Commission Report. As long as hog-eyed Edwin and family-values Ron are in the toilet, dodging fallout from bungled attempts to place the entire Earth in the grip of their perverse domination, perhaps the regular Joe can whip a little thong on his wife, or have her whip some on him. Maybe the couple can even stroll hand-in-cuff down to the local adult newsstand and browse through a selection of gonad-gripping tight-laced graphics. Or maybe not.

Veterans in the field of nylon-cord carnality say today's repressive climate is unprecedented. All agree that the current officially unofficial crackdowns are not part of a cyclical progression that will soon return to a permissive norm. Strong factors exist now that were negligible five or six years ago: feminists, women's lib, AIDS panic that reinforces taboos against any sort of nonstandard sex, the Moral Majority growing noisier and better organized. None of these things is going away.

One sad irony of majority rule is that the people who are against an unusual behavior do more work than the people who are happily engaged in the unusual behavior. Suddenly, the happy unusual-behavers find that things have changed. One bleak estimate sees producers being picked off until, within five years, B&D will be eliminated from the open market.

This cloud of doom does have a bright side. "There's always going to be somebody," opines Wilton Place emphatically. "Whether underground or overground, bondage will be there."

If B&D production and dissemination are forced underground, it will probably become more hard-core. "If it's illegal anyway," says one aficionado, "why not make it really bizarre and brutal? Maybe some people can even get hurt. Then the Meese Commission can have the satisfaction of being a self-fulfilling prophecy."

Until that day, the connoisseur of endangered erotica could do worse than go to stores that still stock strapped-down smut, and get it while you can.

NEXT MONTH IN

HUSTLER®

December issue on sale October 20, 1987

BODY BONUS

We've added an extra set to next month's trouser-tightening temptress lineup, to make sure your bone stays warm those cold December nights. First, a British beauty on vacation in Cabo San Lucas soaks up the rays, naked to the world. Then meet Canadian stripper Candice Starrek, our stunning centerfold, whose revealing spread shows why she's one of the hottest talents in the Great White North. After that, it's pure action: An anchorcouple get down on the Channel 69 news, a dress designer and her sexy model explore more than fabric patterns, and the night shift gets it on in "Hill Street Blueballs."

PORN TRAGEDY

The short, sad life of Colleen Applegate, better known to millions as adult-movie queen Shauna Grant, has been the subject of much attention. HUSTLER editor Lonn Friend spoke at length with Shauna's last boyfriend, former coke dealer Jake Ehrlich, in whose home the tragic porn star eventually killed herself. Friend also gleaned insight from a private recording Shauna made shortly before her death. The result is a chilling portrait of the decline and fall of a sweet, confused Midwestern beauty adrift in sin city. This most revealing look at Shauna Grant to date is accompanied by a special surprise that will be an instant collector's item for anyone who's ever been intrigued by this unfortunate story and special young woman.

BLONDES AND OTHER DELIGHTS

Anny Brown's "The Blonde: Understanding Women's Erotic Ideals" is an intimate exploration of one woman's thoughts and sexual fancies. There's a lot more than air between this blonde's ears. And you won't want to miss Jay Amarillo's "The Twelve Lays of Christmas," lighthearted fiction about a well-endowed stud and a very unusual holiday bet.

PLUS

Sex Play examines the risks involved with "Cocaine and Sex"; Beaver Hunt brings you more amateur exhibitionists; Hot Letters contains some of our wildest correspondence yet; HUSTLER Erotic Entertainment has the latest X-rated picks and pans; and Bits & Pieces will make you wince and laugh again. Happy Holidays!
